BISHOP TIERNEY

Funeral of Late Head of Hartford Diocese Held Today

HARTFORD, Oct. 9.—With no more ostentation than afforded by the service of the church in which he had labored throughout his eventful life, the body of the late Right Rev. Michael Tierney, bishop of Hartford, was consigned to the crypt of St. Joseph's cathedral today. The pontifical mass of requiem was celebrated in the cathedral this morning by the Most Rev. William H. O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, with Right Rev. Mgr. John Synnott, administrator of the diocese, priest, the preacher was Right Rev. Matthew Higgins, bishop of Providence, who took part in the consecration of Bishop Tierney in 1894. The officers of the mass were the consultants of the diocese while within the sanctuary hall were about 200 priests of the diocese who made the responses. The mass was in the Gregorian chant by the students of St. Thomas seminary led by the boy choir of the cathedral and directed by Rev. F. A. Jordan. As it has always been the wish of Bishop Tierney that his funeral should be marked by extreme simplicity the arrangements were in keeping with this wish so far as possible. The congregation was made up of delegations of Catholic societies in the diocese, members of the priesthood and of religious orders and groups of children from Catholic educational institutions. Other seats available were taken by Catholics of this and other cities of the state. The body of the bishop had lain in state since Wednesday afternoon only by a guard of men of the cathedral parish. After the mass of requiem the casket was closed and it was then borne to the crypt under the cathedral.

HOTEL DESTROYED

Twenty-Five Guests Barely Escaped With Their Lives

MILO, Me., Oct. 9.—Forced to crawl on their hands and knees through a section of the hallway, twenty-five guests barely escaped with their lives early today from a fire which completely gutted Gould's hotel, a three story frame building. Joseph Dumpy, the hotel clerk, was forced to jump from a second story window, but was not injured. The hotel was filled with guests, the most of whom lost their valuables and money. The fire originated at the back of the ell of the house out of doors and was thought to have been of incendiary origin. It raged with great fury and within a few minutes from the sounding of the alarm the whole set of buildings was filled with flame. It communicated to the five stable, connected with the hotel and managed by Louis Ryder. The horses were saved but all the harnesses, carriages, etc., were lost. Mr. Ryder lost $170 in money.

The buildings were owned by Fred H. Gould and his loss was $18,000. Israel T. Hughes, proprietor of the hotel suffered a loss of $1000 and Mr. Ryder's loss was the same. The hotel was recently equipped with new furniture throughout by Mr. Gould.

GREAT FISHERMAN

Oswald O'Heir goes on record as Lowell's champion fresh water fisherman. He brought to Lowell yesterday from his camp 38 of the finest specimens of the fluky tribe seen in this "neck of the woods" for some time. Oswald recalled them with his mystic fishing pole in a pond, the name of which he will not divulge. In the vicinity of his camp somewhere along the Stony Brook railroad. Some of the fish weigh more than a pound. Today they were on exhibition in the display window of the O'Heir Furniture company prior to being utilized for a fish fry for the "king of anglers" of Merrimack square and his friends.

Captain and Crew Brought Into New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—After having abandoned their damaged and water-logged vessel and passing four days in a small open boat on a storm swept ocean, Captain Charles Hines and the crew of seven men of the Baltimore schooner John A. Matheson were brought into this port today on the steamship Seneca, returning from San Domingo. Captain Hines said that the Matheson sailed from Baltimore on Aug. 25 with a cargo of general merchandise for Fortune Island. On Sept. 10 the vessel ran into a hurricane. The schooner, finally became unmanageable, her masts were whipped out of her, the small boats were smashed

WAS NOT MURDER

Boy Was Thought to be Victim of Foul Play

BELFORD, N. J., Oct. 9.—The body of a seven year old boy which washed ashore here last Tuesday was identified today as that of Harold McClelland, who disappeared mysteriously from his home in Brooklyn ten days ago. The identification was made by the child's mother who insisted that Harold was kidnapped. Today Mrs. McClelland told the coroner she is certain the child was carried away by his father, who, she said, is not her husband, Alexander McClelland, but a well known lawyer who is about to be married to a wealthy woman in New York. She had known this man before she met Mr. McClelland, she said, and it was as a result of McClelland's learning of this acquaintance that he left her less than a year after their marriage.

DEMOCRATS MEET

To Nominate a Candidate for Congress Against Ames

Over an hour before the time set for the opening of the democratic convention in Associate hall, to nominate a candidate for congress, the delegates and a number of spectators assembled in the corridor outside of Associate hall. The fact that there was a lively time at the convention held a week ago today attracted a number of people to the hall. Hon. Joseph J. Flynn, of Lawrence, was one of the early arrivals. He conversed freely with the delegates and stated that if nominated he would accept. Shortly after ten o'clock the crowd began to grow anxious owing to the fact that the doors of the hall were not opened, but Mr. Thomas Johnson explained that the doors would not be opened until a police officer arrived on the scene. The delegates to the convention held last Friday, who voted for Hon. Louis Ames, were conspicuous by their absence, though they did not prevent the delegates to today's convention, and the were read off the delegates entered. Paul Harrington of Lawrence read off the names of the Lawrence delegates. The convention was called to order shortly after three o'clock by Cornelius P. Cronan, chairman of the fifth congressional district. He read the call after which he referred to the "so-called" convention held last week, claiming that the convention held last Friday was illegal inasmuch as it was improperly called.

John J. Mahoney moved and it was voted that Thomas J. Fitzgerald of Lowell be appointed temporary chairman. Paul Hannigan nominated Michael P. Cronin of Lawrence for temporary secretary. The following committee on credentials was appointed: Patrick Fitzgerald, John J. Mahoney and John J. Mealey of Lowell, Timothy Scanlon, Daniel McCabe and Paul Hannigan of Lawrence, Jas. A. Higgins of Billerica, P. J. Dunn of Dunstable, Carl L. Perham of Chelmsford, William Kelly of Tewksbury, Jeremiah O'Leary of Methuen and William Crowley of Andover. At the request of Paul Hannigan, chairman of the committee on credentials, a roll call of the delegates was read. Hon. Joseph J. Flynn was nominated for congress after a strong speech in his favor by Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan.

ONE MAN KILLED

Twenty Others Injured in Trolley Crash at Haverhill

Cars Going at Good Rate of Speed Collided — Accident Occurred in Bradford Section of Haverhill — It is Thought That Signals Were Disregarded — Motorman of One Car Will Die

HAVERHILL, Oct. 9.—One man was killed, another received probably fatal injuries while a score of others were hurt, none dangerously, in a collision between two Boston and Northern electric cars on Main street in the Bradford district of Haverhill just across the Merrimack river. Each car contained about 45 passengers. One was bound for this city and was taken with shoe factory operatives; the other was a special car carrying a gang of Italian laborers, mostly residents of Boston, from this city to Andover where a short line track is under construction. Nearly all of the injured men were Italians from Boston. The dead:

Emery Jones, 70 years of age, of South Groveland. Fatally injured: Ben Dresser of Haverhill, motorman of the Haverhill-bound car. Both his legs were crushed and his entire body was covered with cuts and bruises. The less seriously injured body parts were confined chiefly to sprains, cuts and bruises: Mary Sheehan, South Groveland; Frank Gallagher, South Groveland; Lee Ryan, Bradford; Joseph Carlet, Boston; Joseph Torrey, Boston; Dominick Korick, Boston; Joseph Solino, Boston; Angelo Reicher, Boston; Joseph Geiser, Boston; Alfred Jonkersyver, Boston; Patsey Gannon, Boston; Jerry Solima, Boston; Joseph Boucay, Boston; Tony Maris, Haverhill.

All information concerning the accident was withheld by the company, the officers of which even refused to tell the names of the car crews. The exact cause of the accident could not be learned for a certainty but there were said to be grounds for belief that the crew of the laborer's special either did not notice or disregarded a signal on the Bradford bridge and attempted to reach a switch on Main street in the Bradford district, ahead of the Haverhill-bound car. A thick mist from the Merrimack hung over Haverhill and Bradford this morning and the motormen were unable to see 250 feet ahead of them. The cars were both racing down a heavy grade and came together with a terrific crash near the corner of Main and Central streets, Bradford, the point where both grades converge at the foot of the hill. "The cars met with such great force that one was telescoped by the other. Mr. Jones was standing near the front of the Haverhill-bound car at the time of the crash and his body was forced, in an upright position, through the front partition and wedged tightly in the wreckage. Both of his legs were crushed. He was covered with bruises and cuts. He was not released from his terrible position for more than 20 minutes, during which time he remained conscious and suffered awful agony. The moment he was released he died. Motorman Dresser was buried under a mass of wreckage, and, like Mr. Jones, was conscious throughout. He directed the work of rescue, telling those who wished to assist him what they could do to aid him and at the same time took him the least possible amount of pain. After being released Dresser was taken to a hospital where it was said that he could not survive his injuries. Wrecking crews were soon set to work clearing up the debris and within a few hours after the accident traffic was resumed.

SUSPECT HELD

Is Thought to Have Stolen Yacht

PROVINCETOWN, Oct. 9.—Acting on the belief that a stranger who refused to give his name had stolen the yacht "Cullin" of Boston, Captain Barker of the Wood End Life Saving station here detained the suspect early today and will later bring him over to town where he will be turned over to the police. The yacht was found by the life-savers ashore about half a mile to the eastward of the life-saving station late last night. When the crew boarded her everything was found to be in confusion and there was neither food nor drink on board. Late yesterday the yacht was seen passing the end of Cape Cod and from shore there appeared to be only one person on board. Early today an unknown man was found near Long Point light. He said in answer to questions that he and three other men were on board the yacht last night but that there had been a fight and they had been separated. This explanation did not satisfy Captain Barker, who detained the man and the police of Provincetown have been notified that the prisoner will be brought across the harbor and turned over to them later in the day.

MANY PETITIONS

Heard by the Committee on Streets

LAND TO BE PURCHASED OR SEIZED

At Corner of Chelmsford and Westford Streets—Tanner Street Due For Block Paving—Petition For Widening of Billerica Street

At a meeting of the committee of streets held last night great interest was manifested in a petition to create more room for teams at the corner of Westford and Chelmsford streets.

In order to make more room it would be necessary for the city to buy or seize some land owned by A. D. Carter, and Mr. Carter objected to the granting of the petition. It was argued that if Mr. Carter did not feel disposed to sell the land at a reasonable figure, the seizure of it would be justified. Petitioners said it was one of the most treacherous corners in Lowell; that teams are required to go into the tracks if they keep to the right in making the turn from Chelmsford to Westford streets.

The petition in question was known as Fred Horne's petition and the committee voted to recommend that the city engineer proceed with the work of widening Westford street at the corner of Chelmsford, and also recommended an award of $100 land damages. The land is assessed at 60 cents a foot.

Favorable action was taken on the following petitions:

Bartholomew Scannell and others, that Tanner street be paved with block paving.

S. E. Parker, that E street be accepted.

Arthur Genest, that Gardner avenue be accepted.

T. F. Haley, for a sidewalk in Smith street.

Lizzie McKernan, sidewalk at 347 High street.

T. B. Munroe, that Merrill avenue be accepted as far as the Varnum land, and the name changed to Munroe street.

Miles Vevers, that Lenox street be accepted.

David A. Mahoney, that a sidewalk be built at 17-19 North street.

H. E. Noyes, that Nichols street be macadamized.

That Whidden street be accepted.

Richard Bray, that Pollard street be macadamized.

Christian Street

A petition that Christian street be accepted was favorably considered, the committee stipulating that the street would at first have to be put to grade. Petitioners for the macadamizing of Prospect street were given leave to withdraw. Petitioners for a sidewalk in Ennell street will be given a hearing.

Pave Tanner Street

Those in favor of the petition that Tanner street be paved with block paving, said that the street was a thoroughfare used for heavy trucking. The street, they said, is in a very bad condition.

Agent Taft of the Boston & Maine railroad was not a remonstrant but he said he would object to a sidewalk and edgestones near the company's tracks. Supt. Morse told him the paving could and would be laid without the edgestones.

Wilder Street Bridge

Mr. Bowers, the city engineer, read a communication from the Boston & Maine in reply to a letter sent by the engineer as to the cost of sand blasting and painting the Lundberg and Wilder street bridges. The writer estimated the cost at $1200, not including transportation of a train, crew and equipment, which would be $181 extra. This was thought to be excessive, and Mr. Morse was instructed to ask for competitive bids.

To Widen Billerica Street

Certain Wigginville residents petitioned that Billerica street be widened to the extent of 40 feet, and that the grade be established. There were several remonstrants, and Agent Taft of the Boston & Maine asked that the hearing be continued in order that the railroad company might be represented by counsel.

The hearing was postponed to the next hearing of the committee.

Other Petitions

T. F. Haley petitioned for a sidewalk of edge stones and concrete abutting his premises in South street, and there were no remonstrants.

Lizzie McKernan asked for a concrete sidewalk in front of 317 High street. No remonstrants.

A petition to accept E street was read, and among the petitioners were John A. Lambertson, Arthur Brown and S. E. Parker. There were no remonstrants.

Arthur Genest and others petitioned for the acceptance of Gardner avenue from Moody street to the end, with sidewalks of edgestones and cinders laid.

T. B. Munroe and others wanted Merrill street laid out and accepted, and there were no remonstrants.

Miles Vevers petitioned for the acceptance of Lenox street, with a sidewalk of edgestones and cinders.

This closed the hearings and the committee went into executive session.

EGGS IS EGGS.

Let us sing the praise of the Great American Hen, who, during the past year may well have cackled with pride over the production of nearly one billion three hundred million dozens of eggs! Do you realize what that means? Well, listen:

If, instead of remaining quietly at home in Iowa, she had chosen to demonstrate her powers to the universe at large, the hen might have laid those eggs, each two inches long, egg to end, in a continuous chain reaching 338,818 miles up to the moon, back again, and then more than half way around the world for good measure—a total of 432,424 miles of eggs! Furthermore, if those eggs had been made into one omelet half an inch thick, that omelet would easily have covered Manhattan Island, an area of twenty-two square miles.

An old Mohammedan legend tells that King Solomon used to travel through the air with all his armies on a wonderful flying carpet, protected from the rays of the sun by the wings of a host of birds. Now, according to the poultry census, there are in the United States about two hundred and eighty millions of chickens, guinea fowls, turkeys, geese and ducks of the poultry voting age, which is three months or over. If required to furnish a moving canopy like that of King Solomon, the barn-yard fowls of this country, allowing only a foot of spread to each, could easily shadow a space of ten square miles.

and the convention was declared adjourned.

"God Be With You Till We Meet Again" was sung, and the W. C. T. U. benediction was repeated in unison.

During yesterday, the executive committee of the W. C. T. U. through Mrs. Helen G. Rice, state recording secretary, recommended the following appointments of branch secretaries:

Of the "Y" branch, Mrs. Myra L. Higgins of North Attleboro. Of the "L. T. L." branch, Mrs. Helen G. Rice of Roxbury.

Also, the following department superintendents:

Work among foreigners, Miss J. Ardelle Mann of Milford; Health and Heredity, Louise C. Huntington, M. D., Dorchester; Medical Temperance, Dr. Abbott of Needham; Scientific Temperance Instruction, Mrs. R. Rounds of Somerville; Associate, Mrs. Etta G. Luce of West Tisbury; Sunday School Work, Mrs. Mary B. Lane; Temperance Literature, Mrs. Janette M. Knox, Boston; W. C. T. U. Institute, Mrs. Myra L. Higgins; The Press, Miss Ella G. Ives; Anti-Narcotics, Mrs. L. L. Foster; Associate, Mrs. E. C. Colburn; School Savings Banks, Mrs. Annie E. Benson; Model Contest Work, Mrs. A. B. Trisler; Union Signal and Our Message, Mrs. Mary E. Cheney; Evangelistic and Almshouse, Mrs. Harriette D. Walker; Penal and Reformatory, Mrs. Emma H. Howland; Work Among Railroad Employees, Mrs. A. M. Peck of Salem; Work Among Lumbermen, Mrs. Clara A. Wilder; Sabbath Observance, Mrs. Lydia B. Ester; Miss Etta M. (1903); Purity, Laura A. Shabbuck, M. D.; associate, public school branch, Miss Ellen A. Winslow; Purity in Literature and Art, Mrs. E. P. Gordon; Mothers' Meetings, Mrs. Abby E. Rolfe of Concord; Social Meeting and Home-Letter Days, Mrs. Isabel A. Morse; Flower Mission, Mrs. S. W. Simpson; Frances E. Willard Settlement Work, Miss Caroline M. Caswell, Boston; Pairs and Open Air Meetings, Mrs. Augusta R. Brigham; Legislation, state president and corresponding secretary, Christian Citizenship, Mrs. F. E. Britten; Franchise, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Lamb; Peace and Arbitration, Mrs. A. J. Hayes.

Musical director, Mrs. L. H. Olmsted; collector, Mrs. S. W. Simpson; advertising agent, Miss Ida B. Merriam.

The following appropriations were recommended:

Salary of president, $1000; corresponding secretary, $500; "Y" branch, $500; "L. T. L." branch, $150.

Among the recommendations adopted were the following:

That the committee on proposed change of headquarters be continued with power to act.

That the recommendations of the president's address be adopted.

That in the department of work among foreigners, the amount of appropriated last year, together with the $5 appropriated annually for each department, constitute the working fund.

That the plan of prize essays in the scientific temperance instruction department be continued.

That the following protest be sent to the national W. C. T. U.

"Since local unions are frequently reported and annoyed by communications from outside parties concerning all sorts of causes and schemes, the executive committee of Massachusetts W. C. T. U. asks the national union if any way can be devised of shielding the women from the nuisance of these appeals, as they come to the larger unions, and form a real danger to the smaller or less informed unions."

That under the department of organizations, be listed the state general officers, county presidents, Mrs. H. D. Walker and Mrs. Emma H. Howland as organizers.

The recommendations were adopted with very little discussion.

NOTES W. C. T. U.

The W. C. T. U. convention just closed was the 35th annual, and the first meeting of the state convention in Lowell since 1889.

The chairmen of the Lowell committees for the entertainment by the convention were as follows: General chairman, Mrs. E. W. Clark; entertainment, Miss Adelaide E. Noyes; catering, Mrs. J. S. Brooks; information and post office, Miss Ella Penn; decoration, Mrs. C. T. Upton; music, Mrs. W. H. Peppin.

The hostesses of the convention were: Mrs. H. C. Rolfe, president of Middlesex county, W. C. T. U. and Mrs. E. W. Clark, president of Lowell W. C. T. U.

About one-half of the visiting delegates left for their homes after the close of the afternoon session of yesterday.

Mrs. Harriet A. Eager, state organizer, and Mrs. Lowell of Newton, representing the Massachusetts Suffrage association made brief addresses yesterday afternoon being called on from the platform by the state president, Mrs. Katherine Lent Stevenson.

The question of raising the membership fee to a uniform price of one dollar was discussed and the motion was lost at the afternoon session of yesterday. The fee is still optional with each local union.

STAR THEATRE

Jim Henry, is one of the attractions that are drawing large crowds to the Star this week. The illustrated songs, "I S. A. for Mine" and "I You Care", are among the best in their class. The first is a march song that is very popular and the latter a high-class ballad. The Travelers are as popular as ever, and the new one today, "Gals Hunters of Crispie Creek," is most gorgeous in colors of the natural scenery of the gold fields. The moving pictures are up to the usual high class. There is a comedy concerning some eggs that is a laugh from start to finish.

SATURDAY, OCT. 10th ONLY

KILLED HIMSELF

Family Troubles Caused Man's Suicide

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—A despatch to the Record-Herald from Abilene, Kas. says:

Dan Hart of this city committed suicide yesterday by shooting. Family troubles are said to have been the cause. While a child Hart was the inmate of an orphan home and attracted the attention of the late Mark Hanna, who took him to rear. Hart was a member of the Hanna family for a number of years. He was a great favorite of the senator, whose own son, Dan Hanna, was named after him.

SUES FOR $10,000

Haverhill Woman Begins Action Against a Lawyer

HAVERHILL, Oct. 9.—Alleging that her husband's attentions have been alienated by his attorney, Mrs. Mary Channell, the wife of a prominent club man of this city, filed a suit for $10,000 damages against Charles S. Goodwin, one of Haverhill's most prominent lawyers, in the superior court at Salem Thursday.

In order to do this she studied the laws governing such cases and now says that she will conduct the case herself if she can get the permission of the presiding judge at the trial. The case, which has aroused considerable interest in Lowell, promises to draw in the fashionable Wachusetts club of Haverhill. There, Mrs. Channell alleges, the cause for the present case originated and the alleged conspiracy was hatched.

According to Channell's attorney the former claims that he told Mrs. Channell before their wedding that he would leave her at the door of Trinity church, Haverhill, immediately after their marriage, and that he did as he said. Armed with a flashlight she on several occasions descended upon the places where he was living and by the light of the same would scan the different places.

On one occasion she was arrested for trespass and fined 1 cent. She returned this suit by bringing suit for $10,000 against Mrs. S. Stewart, a restaurant proprietor, who ran the house where Mr. Channell was lodging at the time. In this case alienation of her husband's affections was alleged.

Ailments of Men Happily Overcome

Successfully Tried by Many

Undoubtedly the following prescription will work wonders for that great class of men who, through dissipation of their natural strength find themselves in their "second childhood" long before the three score and ten allotted to life's pleasures and enjoyments are reached.

It is presumed to be infallible, and highly efficient in quickly restoring in "nervous exhaustion," weak vitality, melancholia and the functions.

First get fifty cents worth of compound field balmwort in a one ounce package, and three ounces syrup sarsaparilla compound; take home, mix and let stand two hours; then get one ounce compound essence cardiol and one ounce tincture cadomene. Mix all in a six or eight ounce bottle, shake well, and take one teaspoonful after each meal and one when retiring, followed by a drink of water.

By mixing it at home no man need be the wiser as to another's shortcomings, and expensive fees are avoided.

Lack of pulse and equilibrium in men is a constant source of embarrassment even when the public least suspects it. For the benefit of those who want a restoration to full bounding health, and all the happiness accompanying it, the above home treatment is given. It contains no opiates or habit-forming drugs whatever. Mix it at home and no one will be the wiser as to your affliction.

Jackeye and A. S. McCloskey, who assist in the finished production.

For the women in the cast besides Miss Deshon, there are Miss Anne Athy, Miss Marie Pert and Miss Chrystal Benson. Miss Pert as "Mrs. Heathcote" is unusually pleasing, while Miss Benson is no less attractive in the difficulties of her role.

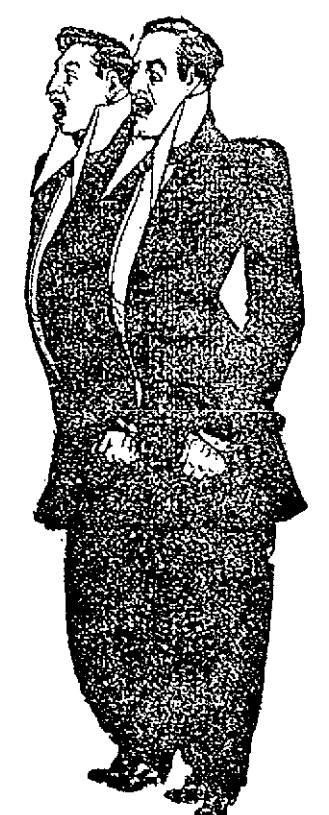

The play will be given afternoons and evenings during the remainder of the week. Tonight is amateur night, and the added attraction of a long list of the city's best in this line will serve to draw an even larger crowd than usual.

FUNNYLAND

The cutest ever is the verdict on "Ten Little Pickaninies" one of the pictures at Funnyland today. "The Locket," a fine story of the loss and recovery in later years of a little child is a most beautiful picture. The scenery shown is unusually fine and the photography is marvellously perfect. "A Romance of the Alps," tells of a sentimental adventure of two Englishmen in the Alps that only results happily after a series of thrilling adventures. "Sandy McPherson's Fishing Trip," fairly bristles with laughter and the discomforts of the brave Scot clad in kilts during a fishing trip into the country are irresistibly funny. "I want You," a new Colman song is finely sung and is catching on in great shape, and "I'll Learn You How," pleases those who care for sentimental ballads.

HATHAWAY'S THEATRE

Sometimes, when a man, forgets his home, and gets interested in spiritualism, or spirits, or any old thing, he finds a day of reckoning coming to him. And that day of reckoning is very aptly described this week at Hathaway's theatre, in Emmet Devoy's amusing fantasy called "In Dreamland." It's a very funny little playlet, with dozens of surprises awaiting for the auditor. Mr. Devoy is surrounded by a clever company, including Miss Hermione Shone, who plays the part of the daughter of Venus.

This week's bill is unusually good. Performances will be given afternoon and evening with a special matinee tomorrow.

Don't Miss Our Showings of the New and Beautiful in

WOMEN'S WEAR

Hardly a day passes without newly arrived garments at this store; and if you want the latest fashions and the best values that your money can procure, best come to this store.

In style our suits are as varied as they are authentic. All the good new styles—particularly those of "Directoire" influence, are represented in a great variety of fabric ideas.

In workmanship the suits cannot be improved upon. Made by skilled tailors in leading tailor shops they possess the fit, finish and fabric goodness which it is impossible to determine from the custom made suit costing twice as much.

In value our suits are unequalled. Our prices on suits of style and perfect workmanship are as low as others charge for inferior garments and lower than you will pay elsewhere for garments of equal worth.

A few details—

Beautiful new suits gored or plaited skirts, jackets 36 inches long, made of choice materials, prices from $12.50 to $30

New Styled Winter Coats For Women and Children

Cut in long, clinging, graceful lines with broad or narrow lapels—splendidly tailored and handsomely trimmed in fancy braid and button effects. But then we can't describe them and do justice to their beauty—come and see for yourself.

But one thing is certain: there are no newer or prettier styles in coats for fall and winter. This is the first offering of the new models for this season.

They are made of desirable materials in heavy and medium weights. The color mixtures and shadings are decidedly new and novel—very attractive and becoming. Prices are agreeable—of course.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE Charles Klein's drama "The Lion and the Mouse" was presented by an excellent company to a large and appreciative audience at the Opera House last night. Despite the fact that the play is by no means new it is of such an interesting nature that it cannot fail to please and is one of those productions which the people like to see over and over again.

Carolyn Elberts made an excellent Shirley, while Walter Edwards as Ryder displayed wonderful stage mannerisms. The cast was large and in every way equal to the demands on their ability.

THE LIFE OF AN ACTRESS "The Life of an Actress," Langdon McCormick's latest melodrama, which is to be seen for the first time in this city,

AT PRINCE HUMBURG The advance sale opens tomorrow morning for Frank Lator's engagement in the new musical comedy "Prince Humberg" which will occur at the Opera House next Wednesday afternoon and evening. Indications that more than ordinary interest exists in this event is shown in the large number of mail and phone orders that have been received that seats be laid aside, a condition which is always a fore-runner of something out of the ordinary. Mr. Lator enjoys unusual popularity here, and there is naturally much curiosity to see him in a new part which was especially written for him and in which he is said to excel his efforts in the familiar "Coming Thro' the Rye." So much has been said and written regarding this performance that the public generally is fully aware of its unusual magnitude. It is known that Mr. Lator is surrounded by a remarkable organization and that the equipment of scenery, costumes and other embellishments is lavish and unusually beautiful. It may be taken for granted that the production will afford an evening of rare entertainment and that it will be enjoyed by a literally enormous audience.

MARIE DORO "A born star" is the terse and graphic appellation bestowed on Miss Marie Doro, who comes to the Opera House next Tuesday, October 13th, in "The Richest Girl," a new and brilliant comedy by Gavault and Votien, authors of "My Wife." This is Miss Doro's second season as a star under the direction of Charles Frohman, but as the quotation cited above, from the estimate of her artistic ability by a prominent critic implies, she has come by her stellar honors naturally. Personality, which invariably counts for much in the popular choice of theatrical favorites, is Miss Doro's in abundance, and it is a personality of winsomeness and girlish charm and fresh, unstudied grace of mind and figure. For this engagement the services of Mr. Orelia Johnson, a popular and pillar player, have been secured. Seats for the engagement go on sale today.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC "Bunco in Arizona," that stirring Western melodrama which is being presented at the Academy of Music this week by the Deshon-Pitt stock company, has made a decided hit, which the excellent cast and the careful staging under the direction of Charles D. Pitt could not fail to do.

Miss Della Deshon as "Bunco," the Western girl who turns out to be a great English heiress, is a prominent credit, and is strengthened by the excellent work of Victor Browne, her lover. Then there are Harvey Horne, John L. Wooderson, Andrew Gifford, who makes a splendid Indian, William D. Sedman, the English villain, and last but not least, Billie

CHICAGO CUBS

Defeated New York in Deciding Game for Championship

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—In one short half inning the New York Giants lost the National league pennant to the Chicago Cubs yesterday afternoon.

The battle for the flag was witnessed by fully 40,000 spectators, the greatest crowd that ever swarmed within the Polo grounds.

As many more thousands, men, women and children, seeking every vantage point overlooking the grounds, packed the speedway, Central bridge and every inch of ground on the precipitous Coogan's Bluffs.

Up to the moment that the game began New York had hoped for the best, and amidst scenes that challenge description, 100,000 baseball enthusiasts had fought their way up town lured by the prospect of taking part in a mammoth celebration that had been planned for last night.

But on their own grounds, and in the final stand against the champions, the Giants were forced to acknowledge Chicago's superiority, and last night bitterness instead of rejoicing held all Gotham in its clutches.

To add to the bitterness of the defeat, Christy Mathewson, the "peerless" pride of New York and a pitcher who has been touted as the one that would surely bring home the flag to New York, was responsible for the loss of his own game.

Given as good support as the New York team has accorded any one of its pitchers this year, with his own team hitting both Pfeister and Brown and at a time when hits meant runs, Mathewson failed to show the speed expected of him and after that third inning the result was hardly in doubt to those who were familiar with the capabilities of both teams.

For the Cubs, playing the game as a unit, fielding and backing up in perfect style and showing a smoothness and team work that was utterly lacking in the Giants' makeup, looked by far the better team, and before the game was half finished, even the Giants' warmest supporters were willing to acknowledge this.

The victory of the Cubs is all the more creditable in view of the fact that from start to finish they were handicapped all the way, first by the antagonism shown them by the immense crowd, secondly by the ugly tactics of the New York team, again by the one-sided umpiring, all in favor of the home team, and lastly, by the actions of certain rowdies who did their best to interfere with the work of the Cubs.

THE GAME.

First Inning
For Chicago: Sheppard struck out. Schulte fanned and the crowd cheered wildly for Mathewson, who was in superb condition.
Evers was out on a fast stop and threw, Herzog to Tenney. No runs.
For New York: Tenney took his base, being hit by the first ball Pfeister pitched.

Herzog got a base on balls.
Herzog was caught off first by Chance on Kling's throw. Bresnahan struck out and Donlin doubled to right scoring Tenney. Chance claimed the ball was foul but Umpire Johnstone differed.
Seymour walked. Chance took Pfeister out of the box and substituted Brown.
One run. Devlin fanned.
Score—New York 1, Chicago 0.

Second Inning
Chicago: Chance singled to right but was caught napping off first, Mathewson to Tenney. Hoffman protested while the crowd howled.
Hoffman continued to protest and was put out of the game and ordered off the field. Moran who was coaching was put off the coaching line. Steinfeldt fanned. Howard batted in place of Hoffman and struck out. No runs.
For New York: McCormick flied to Schulte. Bridwell went out the same way. Mathewson out. Tinker to Chance, a fast play. No runs.
Score—New York 1, Chicago 0.

Third Inning
Chicago: Tinker tried to deep center. Kling singled to left center, scoring Tinker. Brown went out to Tenney, unassisted. Kling going to second. Sheppard flied to Seymour whose throw-in held Kling on second. Evers walked. Schulte doubled to left, scoring Kling.
Chance doubled to right, scoring Evers and Schulte.
Steinfeldt struck out.
For New York: Herzog flied to Kling.

Bresnahan hit to left for a base. Donlin forced Bresnahan at second by Tinker unassisted. Seymour flied to Sheppard. No runs. Total score at end of third inning.
Chicago 4, New York 1.

Fourth Inning
For Chicago: Howard out. Herzog to Tenney. Tinker was easy for Mathewson and Tenney. Kling flied to McCormick.
No runs.
For New York: Devlin out. Steinfeldt to Chance. McCormick flied out to Howard. Bridwell out. Evers to Chance. No runs. Total score:
Chicago 4, New York 1.

Fifth Inning
For Chicago: Brown was dismissed on a fine stop and throw. Bridwell to Tenney. Seymour got under Sheppard's fly. Evers went out. Mathewson to Tenney. No runs.
For New York: Mathewson out. Steinfeldt to Chance. Evers and Chance dismissed Tenney. Herzog flied Chance. No runs.
Score—Chicago 4, New York 1.

For Chicago: Schulte flied to Donlin. Chance singled to left. Chance caught stealing. Bresnahan to Herzog. Steinfeldt singled to left. Howard fanned. No runs.
For New York: Bresnahan was out. Tinker to Chance. Donlin flied to Sheppard. Seymour sent a long fly to Schulte. No runs.
Total score: Chicago 4, New York 1.

Seventh Inning
For Chicago: Tinker flied to McCormick. Kling fanned Brown out. Mathewson to Tenney. No runs.
For New York: Devlin singled to left center. McCormick hit safely to right for a base. Bridwell walked, filling the bases. Doyle batted for

GEN. BURD GRUBB

Nominated by Democrats of New Jersey

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 9.—General E. Burd Grubb, whom the democrats of the Second district of New Jersey have nominated for congress, is a republican. His opponent is John J. Gardner, republican.

of Atlantic City, who has been in the house of representatives for ten years. General Grubb is a national figure, having been United States minister to Spain under President Harrison from 1890 to 1892. He was defeated as a republican candidate for governor of New Jersey in 1892. By nominating Grubb, it is hoped to defeat Gardner who has made himself obnoxious to the democrats who however, could not hope for success by nominating one of their own party.

Mathewson. He fouled out to Kling. Tenney flied to Schulte and Devlin scored. Herzog out to Tinker to Chance.

Score—Chicago 4, New York 2.

Eighth Inning
For Chicago: Willis went into pitch for New York. Sheppard struck out. Evers doubled to left. Schulte hit to Tenney but was safe on latter's fumble. Evers going to third. Chance flied to McCormick and the latter threw to Bresnahan nailing Evers at the plate. No runs.

For New York: Bresnahan out. Brown to Chance. Donlin flied to Sheppard. Seymour out. Evers to Chance. No runs.

Score—Chicago 4, New York 2.

Ninth Inning
For Chicago: Steinfeldt fanned. Howard pop-flied to Devlin. Tinker flied to Tenney. No runs.
For New York: Devlin out. Steinfeldt to Chance. McCormick flied out to Sheppard. Bridwell was third out.
Final—Chicago 4, New York 2.

Editor Sun: The Y. M. C. A.-Mt. Groves game to be played next Saturday, Oct. 10, at Washington park, the Lowell and Suburban leagues, promises to be an interesting game from more than one standpoint. That the Mt. Groves are in a position to contest for the championship they owe to no managerial combinations, to no violations of the rules governing the league, nor to any league team obligingly "playing down" for them. To date they have played their regular team against several combinations while the closing weeks of the season developed and which seemed to have been formed for the express purpose of pulling down the Mt. Groves. Failing by superior ball playing to accomplish this, the Tyngsboro-Mt. Groves meeting at Tyngsboro Sept. 12 was so manipulated as to count two games against the Mt. Groves, awarding them in the face of the protest of the Mt. Groves without the shadow of an investigation of the most glaring direct violation of the league rules—one game being counted, also, in a ridiculously unfair interpretation of important and mandatory rules of the national game, namely: Rule 22 and Rule 27 and their provisions. This little episode is referred to in order to acquaint the many friends of the Mt. Groves with a little of its history, and to show the extent of the "treasonable" acts and sportsmanlike spirit of the manipulators of the League.

The Mt. Groves have of late been rather abused than abused in contemplating certain teams battling for the supremacy largely because of including this or that alleged has been star to annex himself to their team. These stars all look alike to the Mt. Groves team and it seems a pity that the closing weeks of the season should be so manipulated as to count two games against the Mt. Groves, awarding them in the face of the protest of the Mt. Groves without the shadow of an investigation of the most glaring direct violation of the league rules—one game being counted, also, in a ridiculously unfair interpretation of important and mandatory rules of the national game, namely: Rule 22 and Rule 27 and their provisions. Groves with a little of its history, and to show the extent of the "treasonable" acts and sportsmanlike spirit of the manipulators of the League.

ST. PETER'S PARISH SOCIETIES PREPARING FOR CELEBRATION IN BOSTON

In the fair hall of St. Peter's parish, in Gorham street, last night, was held the regular weekly meeting of St. Peter's Holy Name society. The attendance was unusually large. President Coyne occupied the chair.
After the transaction of the regular business which was routine in character, the society adjourned to the South common for drill. Here Captain Philip McNulty of Co. M, Ninth regiment formed a company, consisting of the captain and sergeants who are to command the various companies in which the members are to march on Nov. 1st. After thoroughly instructing and drilling the officers in the commands and movements to be carried out that day, the officers then took command of their respective companies. Then the real work of drilling took place there being about 10 companies in line. Forming on the common and then marching in company formation, the line proceeded to Flannick street, thence to Highland street and then back to the common. The companies marching over this route many times during the two hours they spent in drilling. The members were drilled particularly in keeping a perfect line, in making turns and in the salute which is to be given when passing the reviewing stand. After drilling for two hours the companies were dismissed. Several of them are to hold individual drills next Tuesday evening. Already a spirit of friendly rivalry has manifested itself among the various companies for the honor of being the best drilled and marching company in the society and with this as an incentive, it is plain to be seen that some very hard and clever work is cut out for the members to win this enviable position. The next regular meeting will be held next Thursday evening at which time it is expected three more companies will be organized and be prepared to drill. Of the drill of last night it can be said that much praise should be bestowed on the different companies participating in the same for their alignment and the accuracy of movement were of excellent for this, the initial drill.

19 WERE KILLED

By the Explosion of Grain Elevator at Richford, Vt.

RICHFORD, Vt., Oct. 9.—It is generally believed here today that nineteen persons met their death in the explosion of the grain elevator on Wednesday night, the accounts of the disaster being so graphic that the names of at least five laborers not accounted for up to the present time. These names are Joseph and Osa Jacques, brother Alfred Forgue, Hadley Holcombe and Clarence Shufelt, all believed to have come from points on the Canadian side of the border.

The ruins were still blazing and smoldering today and probably will continue afire until the great quantity of grain is burned out. This will extend through several days, it is believed, and until the fire ceases entirely no close inspection of the scene is possible. Up to today two bodies had been recovered of those who lost their lives within the building, making four dead bodies in the morgues here as a result of the fire and explosion, two women who were killed by the explosion outside being numbered among these.

PERSONALS

The wedding of Edwin James Hyland and Miss Susanna Wyman Simpson is announced for Monday evening, Oct. 19, at 7 o'clock in St. Paul's church.

Miss Edith H. Cudworth, who was taken with an attack of diphtheria upon her entrance at Lassel seminary, at Auburn, returned to her home in Chelmsford Centre on Wednesday and on her recovery will resume her studies.

THE JOLLY SIX DANCE

The first annual dance of the Jolly Six was held in Merrimack hall last night. The attendance was very large and a general good time was had during the night. Music for dancing was furnished by the Merrimack orchestra.

TO VISIT LOWELL

Irish Envoys to Speak in Associate Hall

A special meeting of the United Irish League was held last night at which arrangements were made for a meeting at Associate hall, Sunday evening, October 18, to be addressed by Hon. Joseph Devlin, M. P. and Rev. Richard McElwee, ex-member of parliament, in aid of the Irish cause.

Messrs. Redmond and Fitzgibbon have gone home but Messrs. Devlin and McElwee having a few weeks to remain will address meetings in the principal cities of this state, speaking in Worcester next Sunday, this city, the following Sunday, Lawrence October 19, Fall River, October 25.

Rev. Mr. McElwee is a Presbyterian minister from Lurgan, Ireland, and an ardent home ruler and supporter of the Irish party. His speech at the recent convention in Boston made a decided hit.

It was decided at last night's meeting that the demonstration at Associate hall will be free to the public and all friends of the cause will be invited to attend.

MEDIAL SLANT

ITS MYSTERIES REVEALED TO TEACHERS BY PROF. HOWARD

Mr. Howard, the handwriting expert, who has been giving lectures and demonstrations in connection with the semi-slant writing system, adopted by the school committee, gave the last of a series of lectures at the high school this afternoon. The system which is known as the Whitehouse system is a departure from the Spencerian writing formerly used in the schools and the semi-slant writing which was used up to the present time.

Mr. Howard has been addressing the teachers by grades at the high school during the past week and he has also visited a number of the schools.

In his talks to the teachers he has laid considerable stress on correct pen holding and movement.

NARROW ESCAPE

EDWARD OSBORNE FIGURED IN AN ACCIDENT

Edward Osborne, embalmer for Undertaker J. A. Weinbeck, had a narrow escape from being seriously injured in an accident yesterday afternoon. A carriage in which he was sitting came into collision with one of the wagons of the New York & Boston despatch express in Thorndike street, near the Nelson Morris company, destroying the vehicle. Mr. Osborne succeeded in escaping without receiving a scratch.

SCHOOLS CLOSED

New Boilers to be Installed Next Monday

By next Monday the new boilers will have been installed in the Central street and Elliot schools and the parents of children who attend those schools will be glad, for since the opening of the school last year the pupils of those two schools have attended less than half of the sessions owing to the fact that there was no means of heating the rooms and it was deemed advisable to close the schools on cold days rather than endanger the lives of the pupils.

ATHOL CLUB DANCING PARTY

A very pretty dancing party was held in O. U. A. M. hall in Middle street last night under the auspices of the Athol club. The interior of the hall was very prettily decorated for the occasion and the affair proved to be a success in every particular. Music for dancing was furnished by the Calumet orchestra. The success of the affair was due in a large measure to W. A. Grandfield and Harry L'Hercux.

BOARD OF HEALTH

Inspected the Howe Street Tannery

In consequence of complaints that had been filed with them, the board of health members, yesterday afternoon, made a tour of inspection. The Howe Street Tannery was included in the places visited by the board, and while no action was taken, the board members were free to admit that persons living in Howe street had their sympathy.

The board visited henneries in Howard and Shaw streets, the henneries having been the cause of complaints. The henneries were found to be in fairly good condition.

The board voted to grant stable permits near 434 Westford street and near the corner of Wedge street and Highland avenue.

POLICE BOARD

To Hold Special Meeting This Afternoon

A special meeting of the police board has been called for this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Y. M. C. A. COURSE

First of Star Series Given by Whitney Brothers

The first of the annual series of concerts and lectures given under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian association, was held last night in the First Congregational church. The Whitney Brothers, four in number, gave a beautiful "night of songs" which attracted a large audience.

The program was very cleverly and systematically arranged and included examples of six different schools of the art of song, German, French, Italian, Scandinavian, American and old English.

The members of the quartet are Alvin M. Whitney, first tenor; Elmer M. Whitney, second tenor and reader; William

DEAD MEN

Tell no tales, neither do dead newspapers. The Sun is alive and will tell your advertising tale to the masses. Have you an advertising tale to tell? Tell it in The Sun. The people will read it, and your success is certain.

The Sun leads all other local papers in circulation and is by far the cheapest and most effective advertising medium in Lowell. It is Lowell's Greatest Newspaper.

E. Whitney, first bass and accompanist, and Yale E. Whitney, second bass.

The vocal selections were interspersed with readings which were well rendered. The opening number of the program was "The Cheerful Wanderer," opus 15, No. 33, by Mendelssohn. Schubert's "Love," opus 15, No. 2, was well sung by the quartet as was Schumann's "Restless Love."

But one example of the French school was given, that being Gustav V. Chabrier's "Snow and Squalls."

The Italian school was represented by Balloonsse Donati's "Vivanda Alla Neapolitana," a composition dating back three centuries. It was one of the cheeriest of the numbers given, and elicited much applause.

"Last Night," by Halfford Kjerulf, considered one of the greatest of Scandinavian songs, was rendered in a pleasing manner by the quartet. Stephen Foster's "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming," was the song representative of the American school. "Sally in Our Alley," by Henry Carey, pleased the audience as did Trowbridge's "Grace Be Unto You." Mr. Alvin M. Whitney sang "The Hills of Skye and Offered Viols," for an encore.

Yale E. Whitney was loudly applauded after his rendition of Stuart's "Bandolero." The two readings given by Edwin M. Whitney were well appreciated.

HELD MEETING

NEW MEMBERS JOIN ST. PATRICK'S ACADEMY ALUMNI

The St. Patrick's Academy alumni met last night in the school hall in Suffolk street. President Joseph O'Brien in the chair. The report of the financial secretary showed all bills paid and a balance in the treasury.

Committee reports were accepted and recommendations for the coming season were discussed. Several propositions for membership were received and referred to the membership committee. The meeting transacted considerable routine business and adjourned at a late hour.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Spindle City circle, Companions of the Forest, held a well attended meeting last night. The circle was visited by Grand Sub Chief Haffner of Lawrence and suite. The next meeting will take the form of a reunion, and a large attendance is expected. Refreshments will be served.

New Officers Installed
The regular meeting of Court St. Louis, Catholic Foresters of America, was held last night and the recently elected officers were installed.

DONAHUE DEAD

As Result of Assault
Made on Him

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—Thomas J. Donahue, 35, of 46 Neponset avenue, Dorchester, who was injured on the night of August 29, on Walnut street, Neponset, while trying to prevent two of his friends from fighting, died at the City hospital yesterday, the result of injuries received at that time.

Donahue's aged mother, who for many years had been an invalid, died on Oct. 1 as the result of a shock.

The assault on Donahue occurred on Saturday evening, Aug. 29. A friend of Donahue was fighting, it is said, with one Dennis Maloney of Tenean street, Dorchester. Donahue intervened in the fight. It is claimed. According to Miss Donahue, a sister of the dead man, Maloney turned on him and Miss Donahue also claims Maloney hit her brother down and kicked him in the stomach.

He was brought home and a physician called, who ordered Donahue's removal to the hospital where he died yesterday of spinal trouble, brought on by injury. Maloney was arrested by the police on a charge of assault and battery and his case has been continued from time to time.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

MILLIONAIRES' SONS

Harper's Weekly: The death in a New York hospital of the ne'er-do-well son of a rich New York brewer may revive a discussion that was lately prevalent as to whether it is possible for a millionaire to bring up his son decently in New York. Oh, yes, it is entirely possible; has often been done, and is being done now from day to day and from year to year. There is nothing about millions that need necessarily hinder a boy from being decently raised, and nothing about New York that necessarily makes it a bad place for a millionaire's boy while he is there. The disposition to think that people are wicked because they are rich is curiously and ridiculously prevalent. Perhaps it always has been prevalent and popular, but its vogue seems exceptionally strong in these days, as is that of the natural converse to it—the disposition to feel that people have all the virtues because they are poor. There are plenty of millionaires who are no better than they should be, and whose sons are like unto them, but the same phenomena are observed among the plumbers, the carpenters, the iron-workers, and the dealers in second-hand clothing.

There is a tradition that the average rich lady either has no children, or turns over those that she has entirely to the care of nurses, and puts in her time playing bridge for money, smoking cigarettes, and going to dinners and dances when they are in season. This tradition does the average rich lady considerable injustice. Her children, as a rule, interest her more than anything else in the world, and having no housework to do, she keeps her mind on them rather more than is good for them. So it is with the supposition that millionaire sons necessarily grow up wicked or go to the dogs in New York. That always did happen to some of them, and doubtless always will, but that the proportion of them so disposed of is unreasonably high, there is no reason to believe. It must be remembered that some of the bad or worthless ones are exceedingly conspicuous, and that nearly all the good ones are unobtrusive.

When some youth who is notoriously loaded down with inherited money shows himself to be destitute of sense or virtue, all of the josses and most of the newspaper readers know about it, and are apt to set him down as a type. But the young Fortunatus who spends the leisure of his fortune securing in managing charities or helping to make government good is seldom advertised or thought as typical of his group.

WHERE BEASTS AND BIRDS BEAT US

Brookline Enterprise: Abram Penniman, a farmer of Bound Brook, N. J., announces that it is going to be a long, hard winter. Mr. Penniman gains this impression from the fact that the squirrels are very active on his place. They are laying in great numbers of chestnuts, indicating that they believe trouble is in store. It has always been an interesting study to figure out the vast knowledge of weather conditions assumed to be possessed by animals and birds. Man, considering himself the greatest of all created animals, has always been quite ready to take off his hat to the superior knowledge of other animals in matters of weather, forest lore, getting through mud and snow, and through the air, and finding home through trackless wilds and after days of blight through the air. We pay weather sharps considerable salaries, and then when we want real tips on the weather er we watch the squirrel gathering his chestnuts, or the goose flying south—the goose, supposed to be in ordinary affairs the most stupid and hopeless of birds.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

J. Pierpont Morgan has given to the Library of Congress a copy of the catalogue of miniatures in his collection, of which there are only twenty copies in existence, one owned by President Roosevelt and one by Queen Alexandra of England. Bound in white velvet, with hand-colored oxidized silver ornamentation, the volumes are among the most beautiful which the library contains. They are to be kept in specially prepared cases.

John Fox, Jr., has returned to his Virginia home after a stay of several weeks in the Adirondacks as the guest of Peter Dunne and Richard Harding Davis. He proposes to spend several weeks in his bungalow near Bristol, pursuing his interrupted literary work, in hopes of completing a novel, which he now has well under way before December 1. He intends to return to New York on November 20, on which date Miss Fritz Schenck, whose engagement to the author was recently announced, opens in the Knickerbocker theatre in "The Prima Donna." Mr. Fox has just received advance copies of his new novel, "The Trail of the Lonesome," which will be issued in a few weeks.

Charles Frohman has made a contract with Miss May Irwin whereby she will star under his management in America, England and France for a term of years. The manager said he would immediately arrange for her appearance in new comedies by George Ade and Messrs. Callaghan and De Fries, authors of "Love Watches." For the present Miss Irwin is to continue at the Garrick in "The Peckham's Carriage." Mr. Ade's playlet in which she has been very well received, "I had made up my mind to retire from the stage," said Miss Irwin, "and not again appear before the footlights unless as one of Mr. Frohman's stars. Now that such is to be the case I am very happy."

L'Illustration of Paris publishes an account of a visit to Wilbur Wright in which the simplicity of his mode of life is thus described: "The most savage asceticism, in a palace beside the corner to which this man lives. His bed is a sort of mattress slung aloft on two planks thrown from one rafter to another. On another similar stretcher are the two bunks, separated from each other and from the first—which is Mr. Wright's—by packing canvas. These are occupied by his workmen.

"Below below a piece of the floor is shut in by planking half a yard high. A piece of sackcloth hung on a cord marks out within this space the dining room, containing a deal of table on which are the remains of breakfast—the shell of an egg, eaten raw probably. In a corner is the ladder, made out of an old parking case perched on four posts and opening in front on hinges.

"Further on the workshop—here and there pieces of wood squared and planed—a wretched looking glass framed in celluloid, a petroleum cooking lamp and some cooking utensils. Street beggars would refuse such quarters. We smile to keep ourselves from crying. And this man, who is perhaps a genius, has been living here for weeks, after spending months with his brother in just such a shed—sober, haunted only by one great dream, knowing only one delight in this world, to fly, to cleave the young air of the morning, the warm atmosphere of evening, with the ease of the white wings he has fashioned."

Accompanied by a trained nurse and an orchestra of 12 pieces William E. Corey, president of the United States Steel corporation, and Mrs. Corey, spent a few hours in Chicago yesterday. They were on their way to their shooting lodge in northern Michigan, where they are taking a party in a private car for a two weeks' entertainment in which the diversion will consist principally of shooting.

"Shooting and fishing," Mrs. Corey corrected her husband's statement. The party, with whom are Mr. Corey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Corey, his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Riggs, his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Corey, Jr., and Miss Ida Wynne, daughter of the consul general to London, are going to rough it in a luxuriously appointed place, which Mrs. Corey describes as "sitting in the midst of our estate of twenty thousand acres and encircled by a chain of eight lakes." At the end of this time, which constitutes Mr. Corey's vacation, the party will return to New York.

To the remark that it was reported that she will have a private theatre in her new chateau Mrs. Corey, who was Mabelle Gilman, answered quickly: "That is a question you may not ask."

Being asked if she knew Mrs. Alice Longworth, Mrs. Corey answered: "I do not. I am not a social woman and know very few people who are acquainted with the president's daughter. But isn't it funny how she has disobeyed her father?"

"You laugh. Don't you know what I mean. You know his views on race suicide. Has she followed them? She should be a more dutiful daughter."

Reginald Vanderbilt has sent a letter of thanks to W. W. Wilcock, of the Allegheny Country Club, of Pittsburgh, following the recent horse show, at which Vanderbilt carried off pretty nearly every prize. The blue stock-bred members of Pittsburgh society, who have not yet recovered from their plique over the snubbing given them by the Vanderbilt party, do not know what to make of the letter, but their feelings have been somewhat mollified by the announcement from a friend of Mr. Vanderbilt that no offence was meant. That Mr. Vanderbilt was simply carrying out the instructions of his physician as nearly as possible, and that he did not care for society much less to be lionized. It appears, however, that Mr. Vanderbilt's friends at his request, made certain before the recent horse show that all objectionable characters, who have for years made things unpleasant at the horse shows here, would not be allowed to enter the contests.

SALE CONTINUED

have made such a remarkable impression upon our trade and have sold so quickly to those who have taken the trouble to examine them that we purpose to continue their sale indefinitely.

We attribute the success of this sale to the fact that the RENGU BELT feature of this corset actually accomplishes the reduction of hips and produces beautifully moulded lines in the back and below the waist. RENGU BELT is a new invention which develops wonderful grace in the medium and large figure; which does not make style at the sacrifice of comfort; and which does not consist of strapping or lacing of any sort. It is a part of the corset itself, shaped to perfect hips and back.

RENGU BELT CORSETS also have other special advantages—they are boned throughout with double watch-spring steel, which is unbreakable. The boning is perfectly covered before it is sewed into the corset, and is guaranteed not to break or punch through.

If you have searched unsuccessfully for a corset that fits you, a RENGU BELT perfectly fitted at our Corset Department will surely be found satisfactory.

Bryan Tells of Harriman's List of $260,000

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 9.—Under the heading "Campaign Fund and Publicity Illustrated," Mr. Bryan's Commoner of today contributes the following:

Prior to election in 1904, democrats charged that the representatives of the special interests were providing the republican party with campaign funds. Mr. Roosevelt hotly denied the accusation, denouncing the democrat who made it as a liar.

Later it developed that E. H. Harriman had collected $250,000 for the use and benefit of the republican party in that campaign. This money came from Standard oil officials and others, the detailed contributions being as follows:

Edward H. Harriman	$50,000
H. McK. Twombly (representing the Vanderbilt interests)	25,000
Chauncey M. Depew (personal)	25,000
James H. Hyde	25,000
The Equitable Life Assurance Society	10,000
J. Pierpont Morgan	10,000
George W. Perkins (New York Life Insurance Company)	10,000
M. H. Rogers, John P. Archbold, William Rockefeller (Standard Oil Company)	50,000
Cornelius N. Biles (personal)	10,000
James Speyer and banking interests	10,000
Seven Friends of Senator Depew	$500 each
Sent to Mr. Harriman in smaller donations	20,000
Total	$300,000

"Does any one believe that Mr. Roosevelt would have dared tell the people, prior to election day, that these men had contributed $250,000 to his campaign fund? Will any one contend that these facts were not entitled to know these facts prior to election. Now in 1908 publicity concerning campaign funds is demanded prior to election day.

"But Mr. Roosevelt insists that people must trust the republican managers and that the source of the republican campaign fund will not be revealed until after the election.

"And Mr. Taft—Mr. Roosevelt's candidate for the presidency—echoes this Roosevelt sentiment. 'The people must wait until they have cast their votes for the republican ticket before they are to be told by the republican managers of the interests by which the republican campaign is being financed.'"

FUNERALS

BRUNELLE—The funeral of Mrs. Hattie A. Brunelle took place yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from the Edson cemetery chapel. Rev. Mr. Staples of Cambridge officiated. There was appropriate singing by Mrs. Chas. A. Whitte and Henry Worth. Burial was in the Edson cemetery, under the direction of C. M. Young.

DUCKWORTH—The funeral of Mrs. Margaret E. Duckworth took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, 1 Cottage place, Rev. N. W. Matthews officiated. There was appropriate singing by Mrs. W. H. Pepin. The bearers were Messrs. Blanchard, Adams, McKearn and Lashua. Burial was in the Edson cemetery, under the direction of C. M. Young.

FIELDING—The funeral of the late James Fielding took place yesterday afternoon at 3:30 from the chapel of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons. At the grave Rev. N. W. Thompson; spray of pinks, Miss Lawrence; spray of pinks, Mrs. Scribner and Mrs. Bradt, and a set piece from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Copeland.

The bearers were, Myron L. Brainard, Henry Brainard, Irving Brainard and Clayton Stoddard, nephews of the deceased. Interment was in the Edson cemetery. Mr. Brainard was born in Charleston, Vt., in 1858, and came to Lowell in the early eighties. He was a member of the Lowell fire department for 15 years, during which time he was considered one of the most efficient men of the department, performing many deeds of heroism, even in the face of almost certain death. He left the department in 1904 to take up his former occupation of surveying, and at the time of his death was in the employ of J. A. Thompson. Mr. Brainard leaves to mourn his loss his wife, his daughter, Miss Hazel, and a son, Joe, besides a host of friends who will keenly miss his bright and cheery manner, and his helping hand in time of need. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. A. H. Stoddard of West Burke, Vt., the survivor of a family of 10.

HANNON—The funeral of the late Mrs. Elias Hannon took place yesterday morning at 8 o'clock from her home in Elm street, North Billerica, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. A solemn funeral mass was celebrated in St. Andrew's church at 8 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O. M. I. The choir, under the direction of Charles E. Fairbrother, sang the Gregorian mass for the dead, Miss Etta Hoar presiding at the organ. The offertory "O Meritum Passionis" was sung by John T. Fairbrother, and at the conclusion of the mass "De Profundis" was sung. The bearers were Messrs. John Cowley, Edmund Costello, John Morris, Samuel Campbell, John J. Morris and William Fairbrother. There were many floral tributes showing the esteem and respect for the deceased was held by her friends and acquaintances. A list of the floral offerings is as follows: Mammoth pillow inscribed "Wife," from husband; broken column inscribed "Our Ma," from children of deceased; basket of lilies and pinks, inscribed "Aunt," Misses Mabel, Helen and Ethel Hannon; wreath of roses, Ellen Hannon and Mary Ann Carroll; pillow, "Aunt," Mr. and Mrs. Michael Carroll and family; wreath of roses and pinks, John Colbert; cross on base from neighbors, Mrs. Howarth, Mrs. Hand, Mrs. Williams, Miss Wain, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. McBride, Mrs. Moran and Mrs. Haslam; wreath of roses and pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Kohlrausch; standing wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Stocks and family; standing wreath, Edmund Costello, John Finnegan and Daniel Fitzpatrick; wreath of roses and pinks, Mr. and Mrs. John Conley; wreath and star, Ladies of Asa John Patten Circle, No. 20, G. A. R.; spray of roses and pinks, Mrs. John Ryan; and Sadie Van Elten and Thomas Collett; spray of asters and ferns, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kearney; spray of calla lilies, John S. Welsh; spray of roses, Miss John Rybachak; spray of roses, Mr. and Mrs. Morris; spray of roses, Carl W. Mortenson; spray of pinks, Miss Haigh; spray of roses, Misses Annie and Katie White; spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Campbell; spray of asters, Mrs. Godet and family; spray of pinks, Miss Etta Cassidy; spray of pinks, Mrs. McCluskey and family; spray of asters, Mr. and Mrs. Casco; spray of pinks, Lawrence Buckley and family. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery, Lowell, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Tighe. The burial was in charge of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons of Lowell.

SAXE—The funeral of Robert G. Saxe was held yesterday afternoon from his residence, 211 Appleton street at 3 o'clock, and was largely attended by his many friends and relatives. Rev. C. E. Fisher, pastor of the First Universalist church, officiated. The flowers were many and beautiful. The bearers were Messrs. Hiram C. Brown, W. H. Tobey, Hiram Gardner and John McMorrow. Burial took place in the family lot in Edson cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Fisher read the committal service. Mr. William H. Saunders of the Horace Ela company, undertakers, had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Things in the business world are looking up. There is a more cheerful atmosphere on Merrimack and Central streets. Not exactly intoxicating but things in general are much better. If you have not already, you will feel it soon. Everybody will find work who wants to work. The sole purpose in life is not to make money nor to hoard it. But it is essential that one be careful, provident, un-wasteful. There will be another "business depression" some day. Now is a good time to get the thrifty habit. # EMPLOYER SUED

By Two Girls for $5000 for Alleged Injury

A case that opened in the superior court yesterday afternoon, before Judge White, was resumed today and the case is somewhat unusual as it is based on an alleged assault and battery case heard in a Malden court a few months ago.

There are two plaintiffs, two sisters, Hannah and Katherine Woods, and the defendant is Frederick W. Thomas, one of Melrose's most wealthy citizens.

The plaintiffs were employed in the family of the defendant, as cook and second girl. The trouble responsible for the court proceedings took place last May and the girls, attractive in appearance, are suing for $5000 damages each for assault, claiming that Mr. Thomas used such physical force in ejecting them from his house in Bellevue avenue, Melrose, as to do them bodily injury. They claim that the ejection from the house was without warning. John O'Connor, Kimball building, Boston, represents the plaintiffs; Johnson, Clapp and Underwood for the defense.

The defense claims that Mr. Thomas lawfully and properly removed the plaintiffs from the premises on which they were unlawfully remaining after they had been duly ordered to depart therefrom.

Hannah Woods testified that Mr. Thomas, while they were having an argument, seized her by the neck and walked her toward the door; that she did not resist him, but that she suffered a severe shaking because of the rough manner in which she was treated and thrown through the door. She alleged that she has since suffered from nervousness, sleeplessness, and loss of appetite.

Her sister Katherine testified that she, too, suffered because of the rough exit which she experienced. The story has it that Hannah had "given notice" to Mr. Thomas, two days previous to the trouble.

Other than the plaintiffs, the witnesses today included Miss Alice Curran, who testified that the girls went to the house where she was living on the night of the alleged trouble.

She testified that the sleeve of Hannah's dress was badly torn and that there were scratches on her arm and neck. She said that Hannah was nervous and crying.

Katherine, too, she said, was very nervous and her arm was torn. Witness said she gave Hannah a cloak with which to cover her torn waist.

It was stated in evidence that the girls on the night of the trouble went to the house of the man who is now their counsel, Mr. John J. O'Connor, and were given medical attendance there.

They were attended by Dr. John Joseph Stack of Melrose, and he was a witness in the case today. Counsel for the defendant had many objections to questions or their form and the case dragged slowly along during the forenoon.

Dr. Stack said that he found the girls suffering from injury and fright and that in administering to them he gave them strychnine to increase the action of the heart, and later he gave them digitalis to lower the heart beat and increase the force.

Dr. Stack said that Hannah had a mark on her neck, a sort of chafe and he thought it was caused by the human hand, but allowed that it might also have been caused in some other way. He said that her shirt waist was torn and her arm was scratched. She was excited, weak and trembling as if her vitality was almost gone.

Witness said that Katherine had a mark on her forearm and she was very nervous, excited and trembling. Next morning he visited the girls at their home in Malden. They were in bed and still in a highly nervous condition. He visited them again at their home in Malden and later they came to his office.

In reply to a hypothetical question in which he was asked if such an experience as the girls had related would be adequate cause for the condition now existing, witness said it would. He said that because of their experience the girls were suffering from nervous prostration.

On cross-examination Dr. Stack testified that he graduated from Holy Cross college and from the Harvard Medical school; from the latter in the class of 1907. He admitted that all the hospital experience he had had was what he gained at the medical school and that today's experience was his first in court as an expert witness.

80 YEARS OLD

MRS. AARON BROWN CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

Mrs. Aaron Brown of 19 Myrtle street observed the 80th anniversary of her birth yesterday. Between three and 5 o'clock in the afternoon she entertained her friends informally, about 150 being received.

Mrs. Brown was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Caleb Philbrick and Mrs. Mary Jacques of Springfield. The interior of the house was prettily decorated with flowers. In the dining-room where luncheon was served Mrs. Jas. G. Hill, Mrs. Harry A. Keep, Miss Mabel Jacques and Miss Mary Lamson assisted in entertaining.

The dining-room table was richly decorated with roses and carnations, and bore a large birthday cake properly inscribed.

Mrs. Brown received a large number of gifts, but best of all were the sincere congratulations of her friends, who could hardly believe that 80 years had really passed over her life.

CLOTHES OF CHARACTER

There's as much difference in clothes as there is in men. A man's work reflects his character—or lack of it. The personality of the clothes designer is shown in the garment he produces.

There's a merchant tailor in New York City who gets $100 for a suit of clothes—and he's kept busy.

He has to charge a big price because his system of individual measurements allows only a small production.

The fine Ready-to-wear Clothier takes the same man—makes him head designer at double his former income—and by his system of production, sells the same character of garment for less than half.

With a few exceptions in the big cities, the cleverest designers are in the Ready-to-Wear—where the field for development is almost unlimited.

Since we started in 1893, the MERRIMACK CLOTHING COMPANY has been identified with high-grade clothes for men—CLOTHES OF CHARACTER.

We began by featuring the honest product of A. SHUMAN & CO., BOSTON. As the business developed, the high grade lines of The Fechter, Fishel Co. and the Washington Company, of New York City, were added to give variety and Metropolitan style to the showing of fine goods.

For strictly young fellows, Samuel W. Peck & Co., New York City, produces the smartest clothes in America.

All of these makes we control for Lowell. The assortment of models and fabrics, representing four of the best clothes makers in the country, can't be duplicated north of Boston.

Notwithstanding the high character of MERRIMACK CLOTHES for MEN, our prices are no more than others ask for ordinary makes. Let us "show you."

A TWENTY-FIVE DOLLAR Silk Lined Overcoat AT $20.00

A light weight coat—suitable for just now—a high grade, hand tailored coat, full silk lined, made to sell at $25.00.

The material is a dark oxford vicuna, cut in regular length, 42 inches, with broad shoulders, snug fitting collar, half box back and ample skirt. The silk lining runs to the button holes.

If it were not for the high character of the fabric and the tailoring, the price—$20—would not be remarkable. As it is—well, if you're interested, see it for yourself.

Sizes from 34 to 50 breast.

Fall Suits $10 to $30

Fall Overcoats $10 to $30

Dropped Dead in His Home

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—Capt. Charles B. Stiles, a prominent veteran of the civil war and for 30 years head clerk of the street permit department at city hall, dropped dead last night just as he entered his home, 38 Wrentham street, Ashmont. Death was the result of a stroke of paralysis.

His death came as a great shock to his family and friends, for he had been in robust health for years and seemed perfectly well at his office yesterday.

On the way home, however, in the train to Ashmont shortly after 6 o'clock, he seemed to have had a premonition of death, for he spoke to a young woman on the seat with him, giving her his name and address in case he dropped dead. He kept up until he had hung up his hat in the front hall at his home, when without a word, he collapsed.

CAPT. ZURAS

Spoke of Kitchener's March to Khartoum

Capt. S. C. Zuras, formerly of the British army in Egypt, delivered a rather interesting address at the Gorham Street Primitive M. E. church, last night. Capt. Zuras was with Lord Kitchener in his march from Alexandria to Khartoum and he gave a very descriptive account of the march which he prefaced with a description from his personal experience of the bombardment of Alexandria.

BATTING HONORS

Leaders in the Two Big Leagues

After one of the hottest struggles in the history of the game, the batting honors in the two big leagues for the season of 1908 go to Wagner of Pittsburgh in the National, and to Criss of the St. Louis Browns in the American league, both of whom have the same average, .353.

Johnnie Evers, the wonderful little second sacker of the thrice champion Cubs, was the runner-up in the National league, beating out by three points Capt. Mike Donlin of the Giants, who, in turn, had "Kitty" Bransfield of the Phillies by 13 points.

These four honor men were the only hitters to land in the .300 class, the only others to come within striking distance of this exalted position being Doyle of the Giants and McMillan of the Brooklyn, who had .292 each.

In the American league the battle has also been a hot one, and for a time it looked as if Cobb, the champion of last year, would repeat, but Criss, who has proved a terror in emergencies and who has been there with the goods when a hit would count, beat him out handily.

Cobb comes second with .324, while Dr. Gessler, the leader of the Red Sox, is third, with .315, one point ahead of Sam Crawford.

Delahanty of Washington has fallen from the .300 class and ends the season with .293, while Larry Tjolare, the one-time peerless batsman, has an average of .283. Stone, who led the league two years ago, has an average of .278.

ASKS $100,000

MRS. GODFREY SUES HER FATHER-IN-LAW

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—Beatrice Godfrey blames her father-in-law, Lester N. Godfrey, the lumber millionaire of this city, for her estrangement from her husband, Arthur W. Godfrey, and sues him for $100,000 damages for the alleged alienation of the affections of the young man.

Her suit, which has been brought in the superior court, adds another chapter to the litigation arising from the strained relations of the couple whose marriage was the culmination of a romance begun at a Harvard class day.

It is understood that the young woman attributes the basis of her troubles to anonymous letters written by a jealous girl which her father-in-law is alleged to have employed as a means to destroy his son's affection for her.

BALLOON RACE

Will Begin in Berlin Tomorrow

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—Eighty-six balloons have assembled here to take part in the series of airship contests that begin tomorrow and continue Sunday and Monday. Among the pilots are several army pilots and aerobats of world-wide reputation. The racers will start from the suburb of Schmar-genborf. The principal event will be the contest for the international cup on Sunday, for which there are twenty-three entries, representing eight nations. There will be also a number of other endurance and distance races with fixed goals.

The balloons were tested today and regulations according to size and other conditions were decided upon.

The three American contestants, James C. McCoy, N. Henry Arnold, and A. Holland Forbes, accompanied by Brig.-General James Allen, chief of the signal corps, U. S. A., visited the grounds today and obtained official maps from the Aero club that is promoting the contests. They were also given the final instructions for pilots.

During the races the pilot will drop out every half hour during daylight loaded envelopes containing despatches informing the Aero club of the whereabouts of their balloons.

PENDERGAST—Mrs. Johanna Pendergast, widow of the late Peter Pendergast, one of the oldest and highly respected residents of Centralville and a devout member of St. Michael's parish, died this morning after a lingering illness, at her late home, No. 267 Lakeview avenue. She leaves to mourn her loss, two sons, Peter and William J., one daughter, Mary A., a stepson, Andrew L. Pendergast, a stepdaughter, Mrs. Michael Mulliney of Providence, R. I., three sisters, Mrs. Mary Woods and Mrs. Ellen McDermott of this city, and Mrs. Katherine O'Brien of Lewiston, Me. The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and there will be a high mass of requiem at St. Michael's church, Monday morning at 8 o'clock. Funeral in charge of Funeral Director James W. McKenna.

QUINN—Miss Mary Quinn, age 39 years, an esteemed member of the Sacred Heart parish, died last night at her home, 15 Azucena street. She leaves to mourn her loss, three sisters, Misses Hattie and Lizzie Quinn of this city, and Mrs. Edward Towney of Lawrence; three brothers, John, James and William Quinn of this city. Funeral from the residence, Saturday morning at 9:30. High mass of requiem at the Sacred Heart church at 10 o'clock. Undertaker John F. Rogers, in charge.

PRES. TUTTLE

Made Good His Promise to Lowell People

President Tuttle made good yesterday his promise of the previous day that in case the 8:55 a. m. train was late from the north he would make up a "special" at Lowell for Boston. He did as he agreed, the learning that the up-train would be late in reaching here President Tuttle wired instructions to have a train of two cars and a smoker in readiness, and his orders were carried out promptly. The train left the Northern depot with about 100 delighted Lowell passengers aboard and in 34 minutes time had reached the North station, Boston, five minutes ahead of schedule time.

THE GILBRIDE COMPANY ON THE CORNER

TO REORGANIZE BALLOONS TO COMPETE IN BERLIN INTERNATIONAL RACE

Big Insurance Co. to Resume Business

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—The Republic Life Insurance company of Illinois, the $1,000,000 insurance company of the Rhodus Brothers which was to have back of it the $2,500,000 Central Life Securities company as a holding company, will be re-organized with a number of well known Chicago men at the head and will enter actively into the insurance field.

The first steps toward a re-organization of the company were taken last Monday in the United States circuit court when Birch P. Rhodus and the other officers and directors of the company capitulated to Judge Kohlsaat's ultimatum to the effect that the company would be placed in receiver's hands unless they retired and when the court approved of the new officers selected by John Fetzner, receiver for the Central Life Securities company to undertake the reorganization.

MEN RESCUED

WERE WITHOUT FOOD OR WATER FOR EIGHT DAYS

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 9.—The steamship Michigan, from Boston, Sept. 28, arrived here yesterday, having on board John E. Burke and John Burline, Nova Scotia fishermen from the schooner Bonanza of Gloucester, Mass. The two men left the schooner in a dory, Sept. 22, and were unable to find their way back to the vessel on account of the fog. They had been eight days in the dory without food or water when the Michigan sighted the boat, which was flying a shirt on an oar, and rescued the fishermen.

MAN THOUGHT DEAD WRITES LETTER TO BROTHER

WAKEFIELD, R. I., Oct. 9.—The three brothers of James H. Babcock received a great surprise yesterday, when Harry received a letter from James, who had been given up for dead since the great earthquake and San Francisco fire. James was located in San Francisco on Golden avenue and Larkin street, in the restaurant business, which section was wiped out by the fire. His youngest brother, Harry, had been in San Francisco with him, but returned to this state just before the fire.

TO THE MOUNTAINS

Another Excursion to Mt. Uncanoonuc Sunday

Another excursion will be run by the Boston & Northern Street Railway company next Sunday to Mt. Uncanoonuc, N. H. The details of the excursion will be the same as last Sunday, the special through excursion cars leaving Merrimack Square at 9.15, 9.45 and 10.15 a. m. and returning to the mountain at 3 p. m. By these arrangements it was found last Sunday that plenty of time was given to the excursionists to enjoy the magnificent view of four states from the summit of the mountain and the excursionists were brought back in good season.

Everything went very smoothly and the excursionists expressed themselves as having an exceptionally pleasant day, many enjoying it so much that they are planning to go again. While the view all through the route of the excursion is fine at all times of the year it will be especially beautiful for the next two Sundays. The leaves have been backward about turning this season so that for the next two weeks the foliage will be at the height of its brilliancy.

The smoke from the forest fires which has during the past few weeks blurred the view somewhat has disappeared as well so that the finest view imaginable may be obtained. It is a trip which all lovers of the out of doors should take and these excursions at reduced rates and with special service offer the best of all ways by which to take it.

GREAT FOOD FAIR

It seems as if all New England were going to Mechanics building on Huntington avenue, Boston, where the great annual New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition by the Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers association is now rapidly approaching the flood tide of phenomenal success.

Every day, since the opening at seven o'clock last Monday evening, the great exhibition halls of this magnificent building, especially designed and built for just such colossal expositions, have been filled with delighted crowds fascinated by the countless, most interesting sights and sounds on every hand.

Never before has there been such a long list of high-class attractions offered free to New Englanders. Over fifteen have been spent for these free attractions, which alone are surely worth going a long way to see and hear.

WELCOME HOME

Kindly Greeting Extended to Mrs. J. Muir of West Ninth Street

A very enjoyable welcome home party was held the other night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, Varian street, the occasion being the arrival home of Mrs. J. Muir of West 9th street, who had been on an extended vacation in Scotland, over a period of three months. Among the out of town friends to welcome the guest of honor home were Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Fay of Marlboro, Mass., and Mr. David Fairlee of Thornton, R. I. During the evening songs were rendered by Mr. Fairlee, Miss J. Muir, the Misses Bell and Mary Johnston and various other members of the company. Refreshments were served by Miss Della Johnston, Miss Jenny Johnston and Miss Sarah Muir. A very pleasant evening was brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by the entire company.

DIED IN THEATER

Young Man Was Affected by Play

HAVERHILL, Oct. 9.—Fred McPherson, aged 50 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. McPherson of Pierchu road, was stricken with heart disease while witnessing a performance at the academy of music last evening, and died within a few minutes after his removal to the local hospital.

A strange feature of the case is that early in the week the management of the stock company which has been playing here, announced a performance of "Hawke and the Dove," and from the stage suggested that people must be prepared to withstand a very thrilling experience as at least three in the audience fainted while the play was on when ever it was produced.

That McPherson was affected by the play is said to be undoubtedly true by the doctors. He had been a sufferer from heart disease for a long time and this summer dropped in the street at Worcester and lay unconscious in the hospital there for several days.

DUTTON-FRENCH

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. Charles K. French of West Tewksbury, Wednesday evening, when Mr. Warren Hartwell Dutton was united in marriage to Miss Lillian Rose French by the Rev. Chester Howe of the North Billerica Baptist church. Miss Helen French, the bride's sister, was bridesmaid and Mr. Hoffer of Bedford was best man. Two little cousins, Gladys and Jessie Coleman of Derry, N. H., made two pretty little ribbon girls, while Miss Daisy French played Lohengrin's wedding march. The bride was dressed in white crepe de chine with bridal veil and carried a charming bouquet of bride's roses. The bridesmaid wore blue silk tulle and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The house was very prettily decorated with laurel and wild astoria, asters and pinks. After the wedding the happy couple left amid showers of confetti in an automobile for Boston. Before returning they will visit in New York and Pennsylvania. Many beautiful and costly presents were received. There were many friends from Boston, Manchester, Billerica, Sudbury, Bedford, Derry, N. H., North Billerica, Carlisle and Lowell.

LANG-THORNE

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Thorne, 54 Butler street, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when their daughter, Mary Frances, was united in marriage to William A. Lang of 713 Chelmsford street, with Rev. A. E. Kenyon as the officiating clergyman. Only the members of the families of the contracting bride's roses and was attended by Miss Mabel Lang, sister of the bridegroom, who was becomingly attired in white and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The bridegroom was attended by Walter W. Thorne, of Washington, D. C., brother of the bride. After the ceremony a brief reception was held, followed by refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Lang left at an early hour for New York and other places of interest and after their return they will reside at 119 Chelmsford street, where they will be at home to their friends after Jan. 1.

HOME RULE FOR IRELAND INEVITABLE.

There are very few, if any greater, papers in this country than the North American of Philadelphia. It is known as John Wammamaker's paper. It was founded in 1771 as an offshoot of the Pennsylvania Gazette, founded by Ben Franklin in 1728.

The editor is E. A. Van Valkenburg, and associate editor, Hugh B. Sutherland.

We mention these facts to give weight to what this paper says upon the Irish situation and to show that the opinion expressed is that of an honest and wholly disinterested investigator.

Where there is a conflict of opinion as there unfortunately is even among Irishmen, in this country, such testimony as given by the Philadelphia North American is worth a great deal as clinching arguments and removing doubts as to the efficacy of the parliamentary movement directed by the Irish party under John E. Redmond and his brilliant band of patriots. The North American of Friday, October 2, said:—

"On several occasions during the last few years political representatives of the Irish people have been heard in Philadelphia. They have been received enthusiastically by audiences of their own race. They have periodically collected large sums of money to support the Irish cause, and have periodically reported progress in winning justice for their land.

"Americans of every descent have followed with sympathetic interest their disclosures of wrongs due to misrule and unjustly burdensome laws, and the readers of The North American have had a clear understanding of their aspirations and their achievements. Yet now and then among persons not fully informed—and, unhappily, among men of Irish blood—have been heard questionings as to what has been accomplished by all this agitation—as to whether Ireland's condition showed improvement commensurate with the effort and the money expended in pressing her claims through parliamentary campaigns.

"It is needless to say that The North American has never doubted that the cause was in good hands and that the methods employed would inevitably bring victory. This newspaper made its own investigation, satisfied itself of the facts, and from that time has given steady support to the Irish parliamentary party. Its leader, John E. Redmond, and its American organization, the United Irish League.

"We knew that the cause was just, we believed that the tactics employed were the ablest and most expedient, and we have awaited the results with the highest hope. How far we have been justified, and how far criticism of the Nationalist program has been in error was shown in Mr. Redmond's masterly presentation the other night of the concessions that have been wrung from the British government. These things he cited:

Appropriations totaling $22,000,000 for the erection of comfortable, sanitary dwellings for agricultural laborers, to be rented to them at a nominal figure.

Loans, as large as necessary, made to local authorities for the erection of cottages for artisans in the towns.

Passage of a most radical law which provides that a town landlord cannot evict a tenant upon expiration of a short lease without paying him, not only for buildings and improvements he has made, but for the good will of a business he may have established by his own industry.

Restoration of thousands of evicted families to farm holdings, with a restocking of the farms.

Appropriations to pay for the teaching of the Irish language in the schools.

Appropriation of $200,000 annually for the improvement of the national schools, and $500,000 annually to increase teachers' salaries.

Establishment of a free Irish university, with $500,000 appropriated for a building fund and $2,000,000 annual income.

Relief of 70,000 old men and women, who will receive $3,750,000 under the old age pension bill.

"All these things have been won in six years. The record is amazing. It will hearten every friend of Ireland, and gratify every lover of liberty. It constitutes a monument of honor to the leaders of the race, and an augury that the long struggle for self-government is nearing a triumphant end."

The American omits mention of the great land act of 1903 by which one-third of the land has been restored to the people and under which in an amended form all the land will eventually be transferred to the tenants.

An amending bill is to be introduced at an early day to remedy the defects in the land act so that all landlords will be compelled to sell at a fair price. Among the other recent concessions for Ireland secured by the parliamentary party is the reduction by $1,500,000 of the taxes on sugar in Ireland.

The American might also have added that the house of commons has decided by a vote of practically two to one that home rule offers the only real solution of the Irish question. It might have mentioned also that the Imperial Unionist association of England, made up mainly of members of the house of lords, is preparing a measure of home rule calculated to defeat the real measure demanded by the Irish people.

This indicates that even in England, among the most fanatical opponents of home rule, the opinion prevails that the cession of self-government is inevitable.

If that be the opinion in England, even among the peers, and if it be the opinion of such papers as the Philadelphia North American, why should any skeptic attempt to deny the inexorable logic of the situation which makes it clear that if the agitation be kept up, home rule cannot be long delayed?

Perhaps the young men who undertook to sell out the democratic nomination in the Fifth district will discover that the contract is bigger than they supposed. Party lines are not obliterated to the extent that a few smart slick democrats can merchandize a congressional nomination.

WE ARE PROUD OF OUR SUITS THIS SEASON FROM ROGERS-PEET & CO.

They're handsomer than ever. They represent all of the fashionable colors and they're exclusive. There is not one pattern that you can find in other clothing ready-to-wear. There's no guess work about fit for you can see the suit on. There's no guess-work about style for this is the kind of clothing worn by New York men who dress well. There's really no earthly reason this season why a man who wants good clothing should go to a tailor, unless he wants to pay more for his clothes than he needs to.

These Fine Suits from Rogers-Peet, $23, $25, up to $40

HANDSOME WORSTED SUITS $15

These new suits are all cut on the latest models. All coats are made with hand-felled collars and with hand-made buttonholes. All of the newest colorings are represented—brownish, green, olive and stone shades in handsome designs—as well as quiet grays and black unfinished worsteds. It is a stunning collection of suits that's shown you here for $15.00

NEW COLORINGS IN OUR SUITS $10.00

Brown, olive, green effects and dark stone shades in these attractive suits, as well as our all wool Tibets. The suits are brand new, cut on the latest models and have hand-felled collars. Trousers are made with belt loops and side buckles. We have never had such an attractive showing of excellent suits for

YOUNG MEN'S SUITS

That are smart and gentlemanly, but that are not the vulgarities advertised as "college" clothes. There are little touches here and there in the way of cuffs, longer roll to the coat lapels, welted pockets, a bit more cloth in the trousers and brighter colors—that the middle age man doesn't want, but which young men desire. Our young men's suits are stylish and youthful, but they're not monstrosities. The materials have been carefully chosen, and the new colors for Fall are represented. The coats have hand-felled collars and French hair cloth fronts. The trousers are made with belt loops and side buckles—fancy suits and black and blue—all have these nice points of tailoring for

$10, $12, and up to $25

SEEN AND HEARD

A disheveled draft is liable to give a man a chill.

When it comes to enthusiastic supporters the game of baseball is in a class by itself.

The following spread upon white pasteboard is being distributed by a local society of association:

"I am not much of a mathematician," said the clerk, "but I can add to a man's nervous troubles, I can subtract from his physical energy, I can multiply his aches and pains, I can divide his mental powers, I take interest from his work and discount his chances for success."

To the surprise of the diners sitting near the telephone the head waiter, in reply to a call over the wire, began to recite the menu into the receiver.

"Roast beef, French lamb, pork chops, veal," he murmured; then added: "No, we haven't got that tonight. Good-by."

"There is one man," he said, "who is taking no chances on getting an unsatisfactory dinner. He eats here frequently, but always before coming he telephones down asking about the bill of fare. If it doesn't suit him he telephones to other restaurants until he finds a place that does have what he wants. Those calls add a little to the cost of his dinner, but they insure a satisfactory meal."

"Since last week I munch the lowly gingersnap and kindred small cakes with increased respect," said a house-keeper. "What caused me to revise my opinion of their importance was an introduction to a man who makes $2000 a year designing figures for their ornamentation. Up to that time I had not noticed that gingersnaps were so important at all, but now that the geometrical designs, the birds and animals that beautify them have been pointed out to me and I have come to realize that every time I eat a cake I am helping to consume $2000 worth of somebody's artistic talent. I swallow those cakes with proper appreciation."

Seen after Andreas Dippel arrived in New York he was sought out by a wealthy young matron who expects to adorn grand opera some day and is only in doubt as to who is the best teacher.

"Now just what would you do if you were a woman in my position and had a voice?" she asked the impresario.

"I would go out in the rain and try to lose it," was the answer. Then Mr. Dippel explained that rich women with voices who thought they could sing in opera wasted so much time and money vice.

before they learned how impossible it was that they were better off without any singing voice at all. But this shocked aspirant is wondering still how a manager could have given her such advice.

CUBS AND TIGERS

Will Meet for the First Game Tomorrow

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9.—Beginning at 2 p. m. Saturday, Oct. 10, the baseball teams of Chicago and Detroit, which have just won the closest recorded contest for the championship of the National and American leagues, will meet at Detroit to enter on a series of games for the baseball championship of the world.

Only one game will be played at Detroit before the scene shifts. The Sunday and Monday contests go to Chicago, while the Tuesday and Wednesday games are to be played at Detroit, and the sixth game, if one is necessary, will then be transferred to Chicago.

Control of the games is given to two umpires from each league. For the National league umpires, O'Day and Klein were designated by Pres. Pulliam, while Pres. Johnston of the American league named Sheridan and Connolly to represent his organization.

According to the rules to govern the contests, neither of the contesting clubs shall be permitted to pay a bonus or prize to any or all of its players who may take part in the series. The admission to the games at Chicago will be: General admission $1, grandstand (unreserved) $1.50, grandstand (reserved) $2, box seats $2.50.

At Detroit: General admission $1, pavilion $1.50, grandstand $2, box seats $2.50.

The national baseball commission, which has charge of the games, calls particular attention in a statement concerning the games, issued yesterday, to rule 16, governing the contests, which reads as follows:

"Rule 16.—The authority of the umpires in these contests will be supreme, and the umpires are authorized to eject from the games all players indulging in vile and indecent language and unfair tactics. Before the distribution of the prize money belonging to the players, the commission will take cognizance of all reports by their umpires and inflict such penalties as they see fit against offending players, and the penalties so inflicted shall be taken from the prize money belonging to such players."

The entire commission and its secretary will be represented at the games. The business representatives of the commission will be John Heydler and Robert B. McRoy.

The official scorers selected by the commission are A. J. Flanner of the Sporting News and Francis C. Richter of the Sporting Life.

The schedule as adopted was determined by lot, as is provided for by the rules. If any of the games scheduled at any park is postponed on account of rain or any other cause, the teams will be required to play such postponed game on the first day available after such postponement, and at the same park, provided, however, that the game scheduled for the Chicago park on Sunday, Oct. 11, shall be played at that park.

In case it becomes necessary to play the seventh game, the city in which it is to be played will be determined by the commission as provided by rule 6 and at the time designated by supplemental rule 4.

The following players will be eligible to participate in the games, and none others:

Chicago National league club—Brown, Chance, Durbin, Evers, Fraser, Howard, Hoffman, King, Kroh, Lundgren, Marshall, Moren, Overall, Pfeister, Radbach, Sheppard, Slagle, Schulte, Steinhardt, Tinker, Zimmermann.

Detroit American league club—Coughlin, Cobb, Crawford, Dwyer, Donovan, Jones, Jennings, Kilian, Kilgus, Mullin, O'Leary, Rossman, Schmidt, Summers, Suggs, Schaefer, Thomas, Willett, Winter, McIntyre.

In order that the club officials of the two leagues and the special guests of the commission may be properly provided for 65 tickets shall be delivered each day to the commission for this purpose. The press tickets shall be delivered by the respective clubs.

The games shall be called in both cities at 2 p. m.

Main checks shall be issued each day, regardless of the weather conditions. Should a game be postponed on account of the weather, the checks issued shall be good only for the next game in the same city.

STONE POSTS

AND OTHER SUPPLIES UP FOR BIDS.

The supply department has posted a notice asking for bids on 50 stone posts to be used as bounds; one car of best white oats for the street department and various bulbs for the park department. Bids close on the 12th.

WIRE COMMITTEE ON TOUR

The committee on electric wires, Aldermen Cheney, O'Hearn and Wilder, went out on a tour of inspection this afternoon.

THREE EARLY FALL GOVERNORS AND SOME CANDIDATES

IN three states the autumn gubernatorial crop has been harvested and in a number of others the ripening process is going on briskly. Vermont, in the early fall reaping and, according to her custom, garnered a Republican executive, George H. Proouty, Maine, of which great things had been expected by both of the great political parties, provided a distinct disappointment all around by choosing Bert M. Fernald for governor by a markedly reduced majority, but not sufficiently so to afford a certain prediction of future triumph for the opposition. Third to arrive was the new Democratic governor of Arkansas, George W. Donaghy.

All that, however, is now ancient history, and the only thing that remains to be done for the trio is to exhibit their latest portraits and let it go at that. With the candidates, the coming possibilities, the case is quite different; they must receive respectful treatment now, no matter how certain the oblivion in store for some of them. They are the real "Who's Who" on the political horizon, and their movements must be scanned closely. Not all of them may be included in this brief mention, especially those who have been renominated, but an effort has been made to select those who by reason of their commanding personality are lending picturesqueness and action to the fall gubernatorial campaigns. To avoid even the appearance of partiality they are treated in alphabetical order.

Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, nominated by acclamation for governor at the Rochester convention, is the present lieutenant governor of New York. He comes from Knickerbocker stock, his mother being a granddaughter of William B. Astor and a daughter of Samuel Ward. Chanler is a bred in the bone Democrat, his father having been a squire in Tammany Hall for many years. He was graduated from the Columbia Law school and took a supplementary course at Cambridge after which he returned to America and engaged in the practice of criminal law. Becoming interested in Irish home rule, he founded the Irish Independent league and spent four years in advocating the cause in all the cities of Great Britain. On his return he resumed his criminal law practice. In the fall of 1905 he received the nomination of the Democratic party and independence league for lieutenant governor and was elected with the remainder of the ticket except the nominee for governor. Although Mr. Chanler is still young and of independent fortune, he is a close student of political affairs and is keen in the pursuit of legitimate official preference.

William Strother Cowherd is the Democratic nominee for governor of Missouri. He is a native of that great state, born in Jackson county. He was educated at the University of Missouri and chose the law for his profession, hanging out his shingle in Kansas City. He went into politics at once, being in rapid succession assistant prosecuting attorney, councillor of the city and mayor, and on the expiration of his term was sent to congress and remained there until 1905. He is young, capable, energetic and honest. His friends insist on the latter virtue, and his enemies do not combat it. One of his enthusiastic biographers puts it thus: "Cowherd is a Missourian, a Democrat and an honest man. What more is necessary?"

Herbert S. Hadley, Cowherd's rival in the race, is also young and brilliant, standing out as a national figure, a man who brought the oil trust to book, but did not on that account pose as a reformer. Although associated closely with Governor Fulk in his campaign against official crookedness, Hadley is not committed to the executive's policy, but cherishes reform ideas of his own devising. His public career has been strangely like that of his political rival. He comes from Jackson county, was made corporation counsel of Kansas City when he was twenty-seven, public prosecutor when he was thirty and at thirty-four became attorney general. "Young Hadley of Missouri," as he is known everywhere, is a man of parts. Judson Harmon, Democratic candidate for governor of Ohio, has long been an impressive figure in the political world. He was the attorney general of Mr. Cleveland's second administration and earned a reputation as a sound, conservative head of the legal department of the government. Mr. Harmon and Mr. Taft have both been judges of the same court. Harmon is a man of magnetic personality and has been making friends ever since he began the practice of his profession in Cincinnati, in 1859. Despite his sixty-two years Judge Harmon still goes his way with all the dignity of a veteran athlete six feet in stature and weighing over 200 pounds.

George Levens Lilley, the Republican candidate for governor of Connecticut, has been termed "the man who got into politics by exposing deals which were meant to be hidden." When he was a youngster in his native village of Oxford, Mass., delivering milk in the early hours of the morning, he declares, his wondering eyes were opened to practices which made him the foe of everything not "on the square." During his membership in the Fifty-eighth congress he "spoke right up in meeting" so frequently that he became rather unpopular, and the corporate interests of the Nutmeg State are not overfond of his methods. He seems to have a passion for upsetting political traditions, and that makes him popular in certain quarters. Mr. Lilley's campaign is sure to be spectacular, for he is a born fighter. A. Heaton Robertson, Lilley's Democratic opponent, is one of the leading lawyers of New England and has been a resident of New Haven all his life.

He is an alumnus of the academic department of Yale university and of the Columbia Law school. From 1887 to 1895 he was judge of the probate court for the district of New Haven and was afterward corporation counsel. Judge Robertson is a man of large means, a director in many financial institutions and of unblemished reputation. Ashton C. Shallenberger, the Democratic standard bearer in Nebraska, for more than a quarter of a century has been growing up with the country and thriving by his persistent and intelligent effort. He has been engaged in farming, stock raising and banking and has been successful at all of them. Elected to congress from the Fifth Nebraska district, he proved himself to be a virile and eloquent speaker and a debater of unusual force. In 1906 he received the Democratic nomination for governor, but was defeated. His opponent in the race for the nomination was the picturesque "cowboy mayor" of Omaha, James C. Dahlgren. Adlai E. Stevenson, who is the candidate of the Illinois Democrats, is one of the few men now living who have been vice presidents of the United States. Although he has passed the Scriptural age limit, Mr. Stevenson still takes a very active interest in politics, and that he is as popular as ever with his party is shown by his indorsement in the primary elections.

James E. Watson, choice of the Indiana Republicans for governor, used to tell the following story apropos of Adlai E. Stevenson when he was vice president: As Stevenson was walking along Pennsylvania avenue one day a group of congressmen fell to discussing the inconsequential position of the vice president. "He wears a hat the same size as any other man," one speaker went on, "and wears the same size shoe as any other man, and he hasn't a darn thing on his mind but the health of the president." Watson has been in congress since 1895 and has made an excellent reputation as a party worker. He is a lawyer and has been grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias and president of the Epworth league for Indiana. With two such popular candidates as Watson and Marshall, the Democratic nominee, in the running the campaign in the Hoosier State cannot fail to be interesting.

KEEPING UP WITH THE PROCESSION

JUST FOR A COD.

"Hi, there! What are you fishing for?"
"Oh, just for a cod."

ALL NICELY ARRANGED.

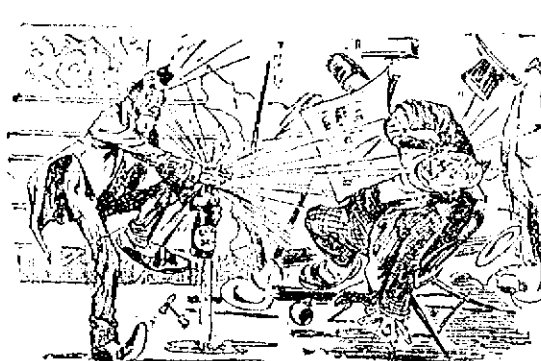

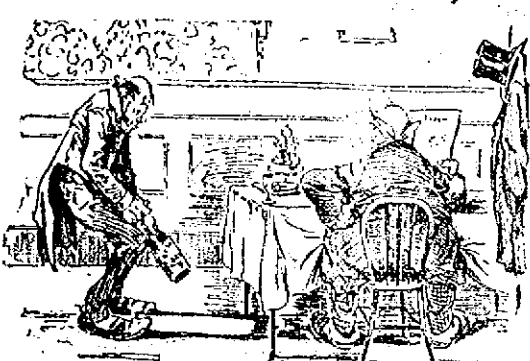

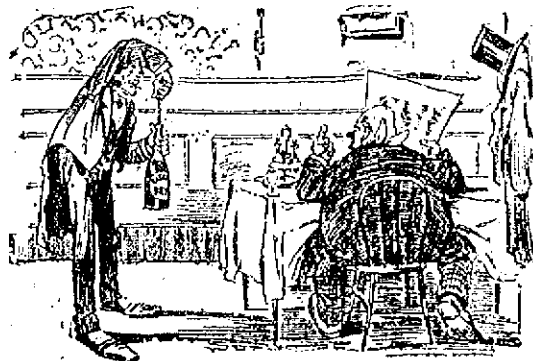

"Oh, yes, it's all nicely arranged," she told her chum. "He has found it practically impossible to live on his income, and he needs me to economize for him, so we're going to be married."
"But you have found it practically impossible to dress yourself on your allowance," suggested the chum doubtfully.
"True," she admitted, "and so I need him to economize for me. It's a splendid arrangement, don't you think?"

DISCOURAGING.

His Mother: "What makes you think she wishes to discourage your attentions?"
The Dejected Lover: "She told me she was a twin, her mother was a twin and her grandmother was a twin."

THE CLUMSY WAITER; OR, THE UNCORKING OF THE TREACHEROUS STUFF

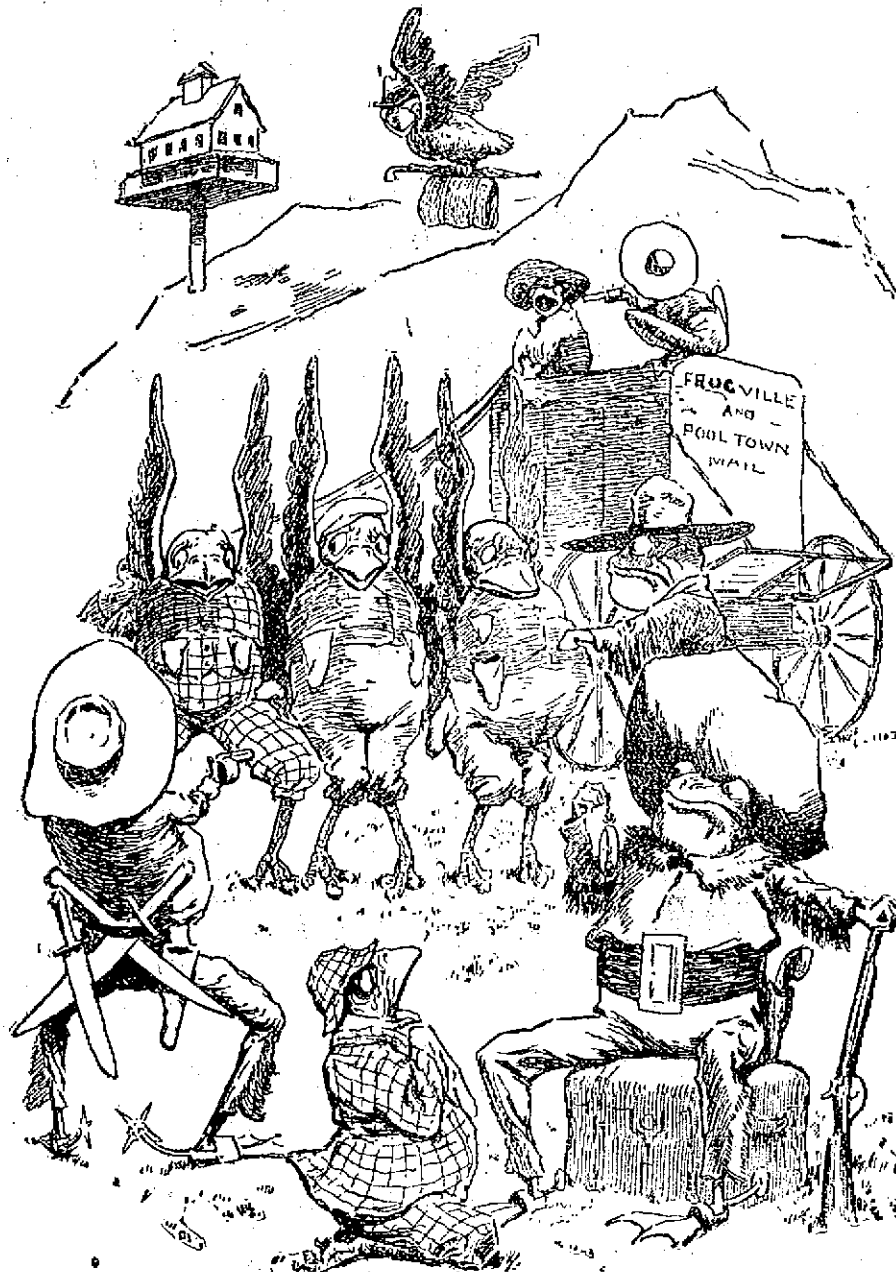

HE BRACED RIGHT UP

It Was Very Important.

"It's 'spectin' a letter, sah," he said as he entered the postoffice and braced up to the general delivery window.
"Where from?" queried the clerk.
"Can't 'zactly say, sah, but I reckon he'll write."
"Is it a very important letter?"
"It is so very important, sah, dat blood will probably flow like water in consequence of it. It will be a letter from de Hon. Samuel Green, sah, and it will be directed to de Hon. Tony Brown, sah, and in dat letter de Hon. Sam will call me a liar and a willain."
"He will, eh? And on your part you will?"
"I shall remark de cognizance of de same, sah, and I shall perceptively slip a razor into my pocket and luxuriantly stroll around town until I meet de gemman referred to."
"And then?"
"Den, sah, I shall gin him de opportunity to render an abject apology, and if he refuses to do it de grim hand of de fell destroyer will reach out and moshun dis way and moshun dat way, and de Hon. Sam Green will be gathered to his fadders, and dis world of turmoil will know him no mo' forever."

FROGVILLE SKETCHES.

THE HOLDUP OF THE POOLTOWN MAIL

Where His Interest Lay.

It was a perfectly natural thing that when he entered the car and sat down beside a man who was reading a newspaper and had the look of a politician to boot that he should observe:
"Well, the campaign is growing a bit hot."
"Um!" was the reply.
"And from this time on it will grow hotter."
"Um!"
"Anything very fresh in the paper this morning?"
"Um!"
The three rebuffs would have been sufficient to discourage an average man, but this man was the exception. He waited half a minute and then said:
"Are you particularly interested in either of the great parties?"
"No, sir—no, sir—I am not, sir!" almost shouted the other as his face grew red. "Look at these shoes. I bought them three days ago. I thought they were a fit, but they ain't. They pinch me. They squeeze me. They cripple me. They make me limp and cuss. Great parties—politics! They can go to the devil, sir—they can go to the devil, and if the next pair of shoes I buy are not large enough for a family of four then I will go to the devil too!"

HIS FUTURE SECURED.

Parker—That boy of mine is smart. During his last year at college he made enough at poker to pay all his expenses, and now he is teaching me. Lane—Indeed. What business are you going to put him into?
"None. He'll never have to work."

A CRITICISM.

"What is your favorite poem?"
"I haven't any," answered Mr. Cumrox. "Poetry always strikes me as merely an effort on the author's part to show off how much he knows about capital letters and punctuation marks."

'SHE KNEW A THING OR TWO.'

Had a Surprise.

I had run into a law office in a town in Dakota to consult the lawyer about a tax title on a piece of land, but I found the place in charge of a young man about twenty-three years old, who sat with his head in hands and paid not the least attention to my presence or my questions. I finally took it that he was deaf and dumb, and when I had spent half an hour reading a newspaper the lawyer came, and excused his absence. At the same time the young man arose and signed some more, and as he went out the lawyer called after him:
"See you tomorrow at the same hour, Harry."
"But I thought he was deaf and dumb," I said.
"Oh, no, no, no! He's one of the brightest young men we have in the county."
"Then he's in trouble?"
"Well, yes. He's being sued for breach of promise. When I took his case he assured me that the girl hadn't a scintilla of proof to back her. To-day we discovered that during the past year he had written her ninety-six letters, and in every one of them he called her his love and his darling and asked her to hurry up the marriage day. Oh, no, he isn't deaf and dumb. He's simply a surprised young man. They always are when the love letters turn up."

EXPLAINED.

First Hobo—I ain't seen De Swipe since he stole dat pair uv shoes more'n a month ago.
Second Hobo—No wonder! Dey pinched him.

More Essential.

Hubby—At last we are in our own little home. I suppose the first thing I must get you is a good cockbook.
Wife (wife of a week)—No—er—you'd better get me a strong can opener.

Much the Same.

"What," queried the romantic maid, "is as sweet as love's young dream?"
"Oh, any other brand of taffy, I imagine!" replied the matter of fact man.

THE POWERS THAT BE.

Algernon (after acceptance): "Shall I mention the matter to your papa?"
Ethel: "Mercy, no! Not him."
Algernon: "Your mamma, then?"
Ethel: "No, no! You must ask the cook if she would object to one more in the family. She is the only one to be conciliated."

YOUTHFUL GAME.

"Bottin', bottin'! Who's got the bottin'?"

The Opportunity She Wanted.

"Papa, don't you think I'm getting very stout?"
The old man looked at the blooming cheeks and the rounded figure of his only child.
"Why, yes," he playfully said. "I guess we'll have to get a tackle to help you up and down stairs."
And he chuckled at his own humor.
"Yes, papa, dear," said the lovely girl. "That's just what I want. Come in, George." And then as the large but sheepish young man bounded heavily from behind the partition she added, "George was the star tucker in the varsity eleven, daddy."

DOMESTIC STRATEGY.

Husband (trying to quiet his chattering teeth): "Now, Mary, walk quietly down the stairs and when we get near the intruder I'll spring out and grab him."

TO THE RESCUE.

"Nail 'im!"

The Latest Arithmetic.

A woman pays 50 cents for a shirt for her husband and 50 cents for a silk skirt for herself. What was the cost of both? What reply did her husband make when she asked if he didn't think she had got a great bargain on the shirt?
A man who desires to move a cook stove weighing 200 pounds calls in a neighbor and platters him into lifting five-sixths of the weight. How much was left for the owner to lift? There were five joints of pipe to put up, and the neighbor spent five and one-half minutes to a joint. How much time in all?
A grocer takes twenty-eight pounds of butter worth 30 cents a pound and mixes it with fifty-six pounds worth 22 cents a pound. He then hangs out a sign of "Gilt-Edged Butter" and sells the compound at 25 cents a pound. How much does he make in the transaction? With what force would he kick at a man who doubted his honesty?
A man pays 50 cents for laughing gas when having a tooth pulled, being assured by the dentist that the operation would hurt even a little bit. Instead of laughing he grows very serious and demands the dentist's left optic nerve and one-half times the cost of the pulling. How much was the dentist paid?
A young man wears 50 cents that he has put a brilliant ball into his coat and not a cent around with his pocket. The woman who worked three hours to get the ball out again charged at the rate of $2 per hour for his services. How much did the smart Aleck's trousers stand at the end of the performance?

A HOBBY OF MRS.

Usual Thing.

"What is it a sign of," asked the innocent maid, "when a young man begins to tell a girl his troubles?"
"It's a sign," he will soon tell her to share them," answered the pretty old maid.

No Need to Worry

Ethel—Why don't you marry him?
Edith—We could never get along together.
Ethel—Well, you wouldn't have to. He is rich enough to live at his club.

the members of the firm of J. Caunt & Co., is one of the chief factors entering into the controversy. His decision a few days ago to fill a business engagement after he had announced his intention to participate in a conference with union leaders placed a temporary check upon the efforts to end the strike, and today it was to him that his brother, Arthur Caunt, looked for the final decision concerning the acceptance of the agreement by their firm. city. Racicot's duty was that of engineer and Donnelly's was flag man and fireman. Both were employed in Holyrood avenue a week ago Monday, the day of the alleged assault. Donnelly after filling an oil can overloaded it, so that the oil dripped along the side. Racicot, according to complainant, ordered Donnelly to wipe the oil away and as he was in the act of doing it and in a stooping position, so Donnelly alleged, Racicot struck him a severe blow on the head with a lump of coal which knocked him over, and used vile language in administering the blow.

Thomas O'Keefe and John Boyle testified to seeing Donnelly throwing stones at Racicot shortly after the alleged assault—and also seeing blood flowing from Donnelly's head. Neither heard any vile language used.
Dr. William Collins testified to the nature of the wounds stating that he first dressed them at his office and subsequently at St. John's hospital.
Racicot admitted throwing the lump of coal at Donnelly as a result of conversation about the oil can, but was provoked by bad language used by Donnelly. He further testified that Donnelly was not in a stooping position as he claimed but was facing him; he denied using the vile language that Donnelly claimed he used, and further denied any one to say that he ever made use of such words in his life at any time.

The court was willing to allow the parties to come to some settlement in view of the fact that Donnelly lost his job and his doctor's expenses were $15, and his hospital expenses $15 more. The defendant refused to arrange a settlement preferring to receive the

TOMORROW AFTERNOON AT 3 O'CLOCK

I will sell at public auction eight lots of land, containing 4500 square feet each, with a frontage of 45 feet, situated on Doane and Newell streets directly opposite Jenness street, off Chelmsford street, near the city farm. The lots are level, on high ground, in a good neighborhood and will sell cheap; also five large buildings to be removed, that have been used as larn and hen houses; one extra good, three-spring grain wagon, built to order, cost $175; demoral sleds, punga, etc.

Per order A. C. HOYT.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Court General Shields held a well attended meeting last evening at Forsters hall, Chief Ranger Patrick Carthy presiding. There were three applications received. Chairman Dennis Hallisey reported on behalf of the auditing committee, said report showing the court to be in a healthy financial condition. On behalf of the drawing committee, Secretary Cox reported that matters were progressing favorably and that the contest would close on the next meeting night, Oct. 22.

Lecturer Thomas A. Green announced that he had secured excellent talent for the coming smoke talk to be held on the night of Nov. 12 and promises a few surprises for the members on that occasion. Chairman McDougall, representing the card team of Court Shields, stated that the second round in the series with Court Middlesex would be held next Thursday evening.

Deputy Grand Chief Ranger John F. Roane paid the court a visit and spoke very interestingly on the order, urging the members, on behalf of Grand Chief Ranger Mitchell to renew efforts to show an increased membership by the end of the present year.

Chief Ranger John Condon of Court Middlesex spoke of the good feeling existing at the present time between the members of Courts Shields and Middlesex and prophesied many pleasant evenings during the winter months.

FOR "NON-COM'S"

Examination For High School Registration
The annual drill for non-commissioned officers for the High school regiment will take place tonight at the school. The examination will embrace the manual of arms as well as an oral lesson. The examination for commissioned officers took place two weeks ago and the result of both exams will be made known next week.

DOWN IN MAINE

Ashbury M. Adams, the Bridge street provision dealer, and his mother, Mrs. Merrill Adams, are enjoying a vacation in Calais, Me., and are stopping at the residence of Mrs. Ira Cochran. The latter is the sister of the former. "Doc" as he is familiarly called in Lowell is an expert fisherman and marksman and his friends await some whopping yarns on his return to the spindle city—but he generally makes good with the gun and rod if he only gets time enough.
